

Fair Closes With Huge Crowd; 93 Horse Show Entries Draw Record Throng On Saturday

The South Mountain Fair came to a close Saturday night with 10,228 visiting the exposition throughout the day, one of the largest attendances in the 32 years of fair history. The largest crowd, in 1952, exceeded Saturday's attendance by 600.

With perfect weather for fair attendance, the crowd started gathering by nine o'clock Saturday morning and kept increasing in size throughout the day. At 10:30 Saturday night, after some of the exhibits had been removed, the crowd still seemed as large as it had been in the middle of the afternoon.

Horse Show officials, looking at solidly packed grandstands, and the crowd that completely lined the horse show ring three or four deep held the number of spectators at the horse show was the largest ever.

Takes Spill
After the horse show ended, a large number of vehicles left the parking space. Those vacancies were almost immediately filled, additional cars were parked in the horse show ring itself, and then parked around the outside of the ring in the effort to locate space for all attending the fair.

There were 93 entries for the horse show. The final class, the Skyscraper jump, provided unusual excitement. Edward Read Jr., Berwyn, had a spill when his horse refused at the last moment to take the four foot jump. It appeared about to leap, and then swerved suddenly to the right, and Read fell from the horse, smashing down the barrier. He walked away from the scene apparently unhurt. The horse took third place in the event.

The four-foot six-inch mark added a thrill when the Russell Stables, New Cumberland entry, Ex Ray, a seven-year-old bay gelding, flicked off the top bar on its first attempt to leap the barrier at that height.

The only other entry in the contest at that height, Too Much, owned by Halbert Poole, Westminster, also dropped the top barrier when his hoof just tapped the pole.

Return Jumps
Dutch Baker, riding Ex-Ray, came back and cleared the four foot six mark cleanly. Joan Kelly, Baltimore, riding Too Much, also came back. Her horse seemed to clear, but apparently touched the top barrier, for it rolled about in its sockets. She tried again, but the height again proved too much and the Russell Stables entry had won the event.

There was a special round of applause for Baker. Three years ago at the South Mountain Fair he rode Ambrose, a 21-year-old Russell Stables entry when it took part in its last show before retirement. Ambrose won the Skyscraper jump that year. Then it was retired and Baker entered the army. Saturday he was riding for the first time after completing his army service. (Continued on Page 3)

Relatives Flock To Hong Kong To Await Release Of 10 Americans By Chinese

HONG KONG (AP)—Jubilant relatives began collecting in this British crown colony today to await arrival of 10 American civilians whose quick release has been promised by Red China.

It was not known just when the 10 would cross the border into Hong Kong, but a Peiping radio broadcast indicated they may already be heading for freedom.

When their release was decided, three of the Americans were believed to be in Peiping, three in Poochow, two in Canton, on in Chungking and one in Shanghai. Since all were expected to cross the border together, they would have to meet at some assembly point—probably Canton—for the train trip to Hong Kong.

Mrs. Sue Buol, who arrived here from Taipei, said she "had not been able to sleep a wink" since hearing that her husband Lawrence was among the 10.

She said she had been busy since she got here checking "every possible avenue" for the date and time of her husband's arrival but she had "not been able to find out a

Pennsylvania is featured in the October issue of Holiday as the state which offers the most to patriot, vacationer, sportsman and traveler.

The Keystone State is the featured attraction of the current issue of the national magazine. The cover, a gallery of twenty-five photographs, and an essay by native-born novelist and Pulitzer Prize-winner Conrad Richter picture Pennsylvania as a land of historic significance, individualistic peoples, tremendous wealth and tremendous industrial and recreational potential.

The editors of the magazine preface Richter's story with these words: "For patriot or vacationer, for the sportsman or the traveler with an eye for scenery, no other state offers more of the good things of American life. Here a native son writes of the amazing variety, the simplicity, the historic greatness of Pennsylvania." (Continued from Page 16)

JUDGE SHEELY CHARGES JURY IN HAINES CASE

Judge W. C. Sheely, who has been appointed to conduct the murder trial of Percy S. Haines 60-year-old R. 2, Newville farmer, charged the September Grand Jury at Carlisle this morning at 10 o'clock.

Haines was examined Saturday night in his cell in the Cumberland County jail by a psychiatrist, Charles J. Ware, Haines' chief defense attorney, said the examination was made by Dr. Charles Taylor, York.

Haines is accused of slaying John D. Faller Jr., 41-year-old Carlisle lawyer, in the court room last August 2 when three other persons were wounded by shots fired by the 60-year-old defendant who is in the Cumberland County Prison under a 24-hour guard.

The court room shooting took place August 2 at 12:36 o'clock, just moments after Judge Mark E. Garber, who was shot in the upper left arm, issued a $50 a month non-support order against Haines. Also wounded were George Black, 50-year-old Chambersburg lawyer, associated with Faller. Mrs. Haines was wounded in the abdomen. All have been discharged from Carlisle Hospital.

Haines, who is expected to be brought into the court room Monday, is being represented by John J. Snyder, New Cumberland, and Charles Ware, Harrisburg, court-appointed counsel.

District Attorney Clinton R. Weidner will present the murder case to the Grand Jury.

The trial is tentatively scheduled to start on Wednesday morning, September 21.

There is to be extra protection in the court room for all phases of the trial.

BREAK GROUND ON SUNDAY FOR CHURCH SCHOOL

"We break this ground in the love of Jesus Christ, our Savior, and by the grace of the Holy Spirit."

With these words, the Rev. Nevin R. Frantz, pastor of Trinity-Bender's Evangelical and Reformed Church, East York Street, Biglerville, led the members of the congregation in ground-breaking ceremonies Sunday morning for the new $32,000 Church School unit to be built the rear of the present edifice.

Gerald Heller, superintendent of the Church School, read the scripture lesson and led the assembled congregation in the responsive reading prior to the litany of ground-breaking which was conducted by the Rev. Mr. Frantz. Children of the Church School participated in the exercises by using little shovels to turn the first shovelfuls of ground indicating the beginning of the building project.

Traces Church History

Tracing the history of the Trinity-Bender's congregation in his sermon prior to the ground-breaking service, the Rev. Mr. Frantz paid tribute to the charter members of the congregation who were instrumental in organizing the congregation in 1912. Eight of these charter members are members of the congregation today, Mrs. Zula Bowman, Mrs. Mary Cook, Miss Blanche Deatrick, Mrs. Carrie Lady, Harry W. Quickel, Charles E. Raffensperger, Paul T. Rhodes, and Mrs. Amanda Slaybaugh.

The cornerstone of the present building was laid on August 4, 1912, and the building dedicated in the spring of 1915. The ground was given by Conrad Lower and George P. Myers, the latter still a member of the congregation. On October 31, 1926, the Lutheran and Reformed congregation of Bender's Union Church dissolved the union relationship which began in 1781 and the Reformed members transferred their membership from Bender's to the Biglerville congregation.

The congregation looks forward to a promising future with the increased Christian education and social facilities which the new building will provide. The contractor, I. H. Crouse and Sons, Littlestown, will begin work this week and have the building completed in 180 days.

Doesn't Admit Mystery Death Of Her Daughter

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A noted psychiatrist said Mrs. Gertrude Silver doesn't admit her daughter, heiress Doris Jean Silver Oestreicher, is dead and will appear in court today without being aware she is accused of being an accessory to a criminal abortion.

Dr. Abraham M. Ornstein, head of the neurological department at Philadelphia General Hospital and professor of clinical neurology at the University of Pennsylvania, said:

"Her appearance in court can aggravate her mental illness and she is being forced to appear against my wishes."

The physician said he visited Mrs. Silver last night with her attorney, Thomas D. McBride. He said he explained the charges to her and told her she would have to be in City Hall Police Court for a hearing at 2 p.m. EDT today.

"Her confusion is such that we never got the idea across to her. She doesn't realize what it's all about," Dr. Ornstein said.

GOP Asks President For Early Announcement To Induce Good Candidates

By JACK BELL
DENVER (AP)—Republican state chairmen built up pressure today on President Eisenhower for an early second-term announcement they said will help them get better GOP candidates in state and national races.

In advance of a breakfast conference with the President the GOP chairmen who flew here last night from Washington were unanimous in expressing belief Eisenhower will run again.

The President has left this question up in the air with a declaration that the condition of his health and the state of the world and the nation will determine his decision at the proper time.

Before they left Washington, the chairmen sent Eisenhower a message saying they were "looking forward to supporting you again in 1956" and adding: "We like Ike better than ever."

Predicts Victory
National Chairman Leonard W. Hall told a news conference here last night he looks for the same ticket as in 1952, including Vice President Nixon. He said he thinks Eisenhower "will beat any Democratic nominee (in 1956) by a greater margin than he did in 1952."

Hall said it appears to him that Gov. Averell Harriman of New York is "coming forth strongly as a presidential candidate" but he "doesn't care" whom the Democrats nominate.

REPORT LAUDS U.S. ARTISTS, FAIRS ABROAD

DENVER (AP)—President Eisenhower Friday sent Congress a report saying America is winning friends throughout the world with a five million-dollar program showing off U.S. wares and cultural artists.

The report deals with this country's participation in international trade fairs in Europe and Japan, and with the appearance abroad of such American attractions as the Philadelphia orchestra, the New York City ballet, and the stage production "Oklahoma."

The summary, dispatched to Washington from the President's vacation headquarters here, covers activities for the period April 1 through June 30. It was prepared under direction of Theodore C. Streibert, chief of the United States Information Agency.

"This has been the most active period to date, not only in the number of projects presented but also in the creation of favorable climates of opinion throughout the world," the report says.

It was sent to the Senate and House Appropriations committees. Eleven Trade Fairs

The new survey reports on 11 trade fairs — 10 in Europe and one in Japan — and notes that three others were held earlier in Europe and one in Thailand.

"Since the program started, some 2 1/2 million people have visited U.S. exhibits in 15 fairs," the report says. "More than 25,000 trade inquiries by foreign businessmen have been made."

"Over 800 American firms have patriotically contributed their products for display at the U. S. government exhibits to demonstrate American industrial quality, progress and power."

The report adds that further benefit derived from the fairs "has been the direct contrast stimulated in the minds of the spectators

USE CARDS AS LIE DETECTOR

WASHINGTON (AP)—There are seven playing cards spread out, face down, in front of you. At the request of the man across the table you look at one, slap it down again.

The man across the table shuffles the cards, shows them to you one by one. He doesn't name your card. He won't let you name it, either. He tells you to say so to each of the cards you're shown.

An odd kind of card trick? It is, indeed. For it's a new aid to the lie detector test you are taking. It might help send you to the electric chair if you were guilty of a capital crime.

This test, with some off-the-record ways of interpreting subjects' responses to it, was described by John E. Reid of Chicago to the American Academy of Polygraph (lie detector) Examiners, winding up its organization meeting here today.

Reid, whose firm operates in New York, San Francisco and Pittsburgh as well as in Chicago, said anyone undergoing a lie detector test is asking for trouble if he tries to "beat" the machine by deep breathing or similar tricks.

The lie detector is designed to catch false answers by measuring emotional response through such indicators as change in pulse rate and sweating in the palms.

8 Children Die After Cairo Quake

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—An earthquake shook the Egyptian capital today, touching off a panic in a crowded girls' school in which eight children were crushed to death.

The Cairo governor's office said four other persons were injured seriously and 18 sustained minor injuries. Unofficial reports listed casualties in other parts of the city.

Eight houses and two school buildings, located in various parts of the city, were reported officially to have collapsed.

Officials at the Helwan Observatory said the quake lasted 40 seconds and was "relatively severe."

They believed the tremors were strongest northeast of Cairo.

The shocks began as hundreds of school girls were climbing the stairs. In the ensuing panic, the children jammed the stairway, almost breaking the railings. Windows were broken open to pull the girls out.

RUNAWAY BOYS CAUGHT HERE

Two 13-year-old juveniles, who told Carlisle police earlier this week they had participated in five Carlisle burglaries, fled their home last Friday afternoon and were picked up Friday night by State Police in Gettysburg.

Previously placed in the custody of their parents, the boys are now in the York Detention Home where they will remain until their hearing in Carlisle before juvenile court.

It was the second runaway for one of the boys who left Carlisle last Monday afternoon by bus for Harrisburg, stayed overnight in Salisbury, Md., and then returned to Harrisburg where he was apprehended by police.

The boy's mother went to police Friday afternoon to ask if her son and another boy were at the station. When she received a negative reply, she told police that her son had told his brother that he and another boy were going to the station.

Leaves Note For Mother
Later, the mother returned to the station and showed police a note her son had left at home.

In it, the boy said he had left Carlisle with another youngster who "was not scared to run away" and "would not get homesick" and "I will see you in five years."

While the mother was at the station, another visitor revealed he had seen her son and another boy walking toward Gettysburg. State Police were alerted and the boys were found in the local bus station, returned to Carlisle and then taken to York.

Fuselage Change Boosts Air Speed

WASHINGTON (AP)—The National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics says a 25 per cent increase has been achieved in the speed of a plane through and beyond the speed of sound by changing the shape of the fuselage.

The fuselage is made smaller at the point where the wings are attached. NACA said this produces the airplane shape known variously as coke bottle, wasp waist and "Marilyn Monroe."

Invented by Richard T. Whitcomb, a 34-year-old NACA scientist, the design already is in use in two supersonic airplanes.

HUMPHREY TELLS FREE WORLD OF U.S. PROSPERITY

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey told a meeting of free world economic leaders in Istanbul, Turkey, today that prosperity runs high this side of the Iron Curtain and United States policy is aimed at keeping it that way.

Humphrey's remarks, released here by the Treasury, were prepared for the opening session of the 10th annual meeting of the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund.

The annual reports of the 58-nation bank and fund, also made public here, noted record-breaking economic activity in most parts of the non-communist world, but the fund's optimism was tempered by inflationary threats it found in some places.

The World Bank and the fund are lending agencies created after the war to help restore economic activity.

ILA STRIKERS CHARGE STATE DOUBLE-CROSS

NEW YORK (AP)—New York's waterfront strike was on in full force again today amid union charges of a "double-cross."

William V. Bradley, president of the International Longshoremen's Assn. (Ind.), told workers not to go back to work. This was only a few hours after the walk-out appeared ended last night.

The men returned away as hiring bosses blew their whistles at pier heads to start the day's work at 8 a.m.

A police department check showed pier work at a standstill in all parts of the port except the Brooklyn waterfront where workers showed up. Union sources previously had said that there might be some return to work today because of the abrupt change in union plans.

Bradley went to the Hudson River waterfront just before the hiring hour and conferred with Thomas Gleason, the union's general organizer, who passed the word that the strike was still on.

Bradley then issued the following statement:

Were Double-Crossed
"An agreement was reached by the union and officials of the New York State Legislative Committee. After the agreement was made, pressure was put on the legislators not to go through with it. We called the strike off. Then they said 'no agreement,' we were double-crossed. We are not ready to make recommendations to the men at this time. This proves again the longshoremen are a political football."

The union leader referred to a short-lived agreement reached yesterday between the ILA and a representative of the New York State Joint Legislative Committee on Industrial and Labor Conditions for a hearing of workers' complaints. The pact was immediately repudiated by the committee chairman, Assemblyman John L. Ostrander, who said Marshall N. Miller, committee consultant who made the promise, had no authority to commit the committee.

There also was a "double-cross" charge from Patrick J. Connolly, executive vice president of the ILA. "We will not recommend that they (union members) go back to work . . . We have nothing to offer them now," he said.

Ostrander's disavowal of any agreement with the union backed up the Waterfront Commission. He said the committee will not be a forum for any organization that defies "the administrative authority of a legally constituted body, nor will it provide an excuse for evasion of an illegal act."

Were Double-Crossed

"An agreement was reached by the union and officials of the New York State Legislative Committee. After the agreement was made, pressure was put on the legislators not to go through with it. We called the strike off. Then they said 'no agreement.' We were double-crossed. We are not ready to make recommendations to the men at this time. This proves again the longshoremen are a political football."

The union leader referred to a short-lived agreement reached yesterday between the ILA and a representative of the New York State Joint Legislative Committee on Industrial and Labor Conditions for a hearing of workers' complaints.

The pact was immediately repudiated by the committee chairman, Assemblyman John L. Ostrander, who said Marshall X. Miller, committee consultant who made the promise, had no authority to commit the committee.

There also was a "double-cross" charge from Patrick J. Connolly, executive vice president of the ILA. "We will not recommend that they (union members) go back to work . . . We have nothing to offer them now," he said.

Ostrander's disavowal of any agreement with the union backed up the Waterfront Commission. He said the committee will not be a forum for any organization that defies "the administrative authority of a legally constituted body, nor will it provide an excuse for cessation of an illegal act."

FLOOD CONTROL
LEADERS URGED TO GET TOGETHER

By J. FRANK TRAGLE

WASHINGTON (AP) — The recent floods, says Rep. Gavin (R-Pa.), should convince Pennsylvania's representatives in Harrisburg and Washington that they must work together to obtain more protection for their state.

In an interview before sailing for Europe, Gavin praised the announced intentions of Sens. Martin and Duff, Pennsylvania Republicans, to introduce a bill to authorize an Army Engineer survey of Pennsylvania's flood control needs.

Gavin said he will support the senators in every way he can. But, he added, more is needed than a federal survey.

Long-Range Study

What the Oil City congressman proposes is that state authorities make a long-range study of the state's flood control, river channel, harbor and water resources needs and then determine what can be done by the state, by the federal government, and by the state federal governments jointly.

"And once that is done," Gavin said, "there should be close cooperation between state leaders and the state's congressmen. Political differences should be forgotten. We should all work for the best interests of the state. That's the only way we're going to get our fair share of the federal flood control and waterway funds voted by Congress."

As Gavin sees it, the reason Pennsylvania and other Northeastern states get so comparatively little flood control money is because they don't act as a coordinated group.

Work Together

"When the boys from California or the Northwest or the Mississippi Valley want some federal money they work together and they usually get it," he said. "That's what we must do. We must work together for the Northeast. We must work together for Pennsylvania."

Pennsylvania he said pays about 8 per cent of the nation's taxes and it should get back its proportionate share in benefits.

"But it doesn't," he said. "This year, for example, we got about two million dollars in flood control and river and harbor construction funds. At the same time California got more than 75 millions, Oregon got more than 74 millions and Washington got more than 18 millions."

Compensation Basins

"On the basis of a 400 million dollar appropriation bill, Pennsylvania should have gotten at least 30 million dollars. It got two million instead."

By continuing to pay out federal taxes for the almost exclusive benefit of other states, Pennsylvania is placing its economic future in jeopardy, Gavin said, and added:

"It's time we awakened to the seriousness of the situation and began working for the protection of our natural resources. And by working, I mean working together — all of us, in Harrisburg and Washington alike."

As a possibility he suggested the creation of a state flood control commission similar to the Turnpike Commission.

"Certainly our rivers and streams and forests and agricultural land are as important as highways," he said.

8 Children Die After Cairo Quake

CAIRO, Egypt (U)—An earthquake shook the Egyptian capital today, touching off a panic in a crowded girls' school in which eight children were crushed to death.

The Cairo governor's office said four other persons were injured seriously and 18 sustained minor injuries. Unofficial reports listed casualties in other parts of the city.

Eight houses and two school buildings, located in various parts of the city, were reported officially to have collapsed.

Officials at the Helwan Observatory said the quake lasted 40 seconds and was "relatively severe." They believed the tremors were strongest northeast of Cairo.

The shocks began as hundreds of school girls were climbing the stairs. In the ensuing panic, the children jammed the stairway, almost breaking the railings. Windows were broken open to pull the girls out.

"The head of a party is like the head of a snake—it is wagged by the body and tail." Is the way Judge Black puts it. True as preaching, and Hancock if elected, would be wagged by Rebel brigadiers, the body and tail of the Democratic party.

SELF-RETREAT

I have my little island retreat in Nova Scotia to background my happiness away from the noise and confusion of the city. Here there is all nature, quiet, and genuine tranquility. No college ever had more knowledge than is open and concealed on these few acres of God's unimproved bit of earth.

It's a spot of unspoiled soil, just as it was left centuries ago. Now towering hemlocks, pines, maples, white birches, and other varieties of growth give beauty and substance to "Weskawenak." It is a natural poem written upon the face of a great body of water, known as Grand Lake.

In itself this island is a retreat, but it offers even a greater retreat — a retreat into oneself — a self-retreat. Here I can examine myself — in silence, and in self-communion. We know so little about all that we are as individuals, tossed into a world of doubt, mystery and questioning.

Every day here on my island is a day of wonder, beauty, and worship. There are shadows of God's footfalls, garished by the gold in the sunlight. My feet feel the warmth of the colorful mosses as I tread the paths, worn by the feet of friends, and perhaps the deer in winter. No artist ever created so many perfect and intricate designs as are here. It is a naturalist's playground!

Retreating into myself, I am not lonely, even when alone with my faithful helpers, who cook my meals, add to my comfort, and give to me and my friends a bit of joy to carry home, as well as renewed health and strength for the tasks ahead. There can be so much more to life than any of us imagines! This place is a natural garden, in which one retires for a few weeks in which to find oneself! "It is so easy," said John Burroughs, "to get lost in the world."

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "To Go On With." Protected, 1955, George Matthew Adams Service

Legislative Leaders Meet Governor On Tax Problems

HARRISBURG (AP)—Republican and Democratic legislative leaders today turned to a fourth round of compromise tax meetings with Gov. Leader in an attempt to solve commonwealth's fiscal problems.

And Rep. Smith, House republican floor leader, says a budget and a sales tax still are the only offers the GOP can make toward a compromise of the knotty tax situation.

"This is all in the exploratory stage, definitely," said Smith, "As far as I can see, the sales tax is the answer to the fiscal problem. If the governor has any suggestions, he should come up with them."

At the last tax conference, Republicans presented a three-point program which called for a 2 per cent sales tax, a 131 million dollar budget cut and increasing by 76 million dollars the estimates of revenue from existing taxes.

Called "Shocking"
The plan, however, was flatly rejected by Leader who termed the GOP proposals "shocking." The governor's own plan for a classified income tax was killed in the Republican-controlled Senate.

The tax conference was called as the Legislature returned after a week's Labor Day recess.

Even as the Legislature reconvened, the governor's projected trip to the West Coast drew some barbed comment from Republican officials.

Leader will make the trip to substitute for former President Truman as principal speaker at Democratic fund-raising dinners in San Francisco Sept. 14 and Los Angeles Sept. 15.

Miles Horts, Republican state chairman, said the trip indicates the governor thinks the appearances are "more important than the settlement of the tax problem so that school subsidies and grants for universities and colleges will be paid without delay."

Horst Blames Governor
Horst continued:

"Everybody knows it has been the governor's own unbending attitude on taxes and appropriations that has kept the Legislature snarled up so far, and now when there might be a chance to accomplish something, he is off to take over former President Truman's soapbox 3,000 miles away."

Leader plans to leave for California tomorrow.

Meanwhile, a one cent a bottle tax on soft drinks to finance a bonus for Pennsylvania veterans of the Korean War was reportedly getting strong backing in the Legislature.

The levy would produce about 28 million dollars every two years.

A proposed 150 million dollar bond issue for the Korean bonus is now before the General Assembly in the form of a constitutional amendment to authorize the state to borrow the money. It would have to be approved by two sessions of the Legislature and a vote of the people before becoming effective.

Vote On Income Tax
The House returns today ready to vote on a constitutional amendment to authorize a graduated income tax in Pennsylvania. Long a Democratic objective, it is expected to be bitterly opposed by the GOP.

Speaker Andrews (D-Cambria) has predicted the House will approve the amendment.

proceed nearly 100 million dollars in appropriations for state-aided institutions despite their defeat at the hands of the GOP several weeks ago.

Republicans have taken the position that they will vote against all appropriations until a tax program is devised. This type of appropriation requires a two-thirds majority which Democrats don't have.

The House also is expected to act on legislation to register lobbyists, extend Blue Shield-type insurance to cover dental bills, permit liquor sales until 2 a. m., Sunday in taverns and to remove an exemption to take effect next Jan. 1 removing machinery as a subject for real estate taxes.

In the Senate, committees are expected to take up the questions of whether medial barriers should be constructed on the Pennsylvania turnpike and by how much the 425 million dollar ceiling should be increased for authority-financed school construction subject to state aid.

GERMANS, REDS FAIL TO REACH AGREEMENT

MOSCOW (AP)—The foreign ministers of the Soviet Union and West Germany met for an hour and a half today and a German spokesman said afterward no agreement had been reached on subjects dividing the two nations.

Felix von Eckardt, West German spokesman, said the foreign ministers will make separate reports at this afternoon's meeting of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and Premier Nikolai Bulganin.

Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano and V. M. Molotov met to discuss "concrete proposals" to be presented later to Adenauer and Bulganin.

Red Is Optimistic
While Von Eckardt declared no progress had been made and that basically the normalization talks were at the same place they were when they opened last Friday, a somewhat more optimistic view was advanced by Leonid Ilyichev, the Soviet press chief. Ilyichev told reporters the foreign ministers had a sincere exchange of opinions and "judging from the fact they decided to report to their heads of government, one can judge that there were some results."

Von Eckardt said the two countries were still just as far apart as ever on such questions as the German war prisoners, reunification and means of establishing normal relations.

A full session of both delegations was scheduled for the afternoon. The German delegation has tentatively scheduled its departure for Wednesday. A spokesman told reporters the next 24 hours probably would show whether the parity was dead or not.

Outlook Gloomy
The outlook appeared gloomy. The positions of the two governments on the two main questions—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer had posed—the prisoners and reunification—were just as far apart as at the outset of the conference.

Soviet Premier Bulganin declared at the grim Saturday session that he considered it "expedient" to discuss the prisoner question and that he wanted the East German regime to take part in any such talks.

Bulganin insisted again that Russia held no more German POWs but only war criminals sentenced by the Soviet courts. The Communists claim that 9,626 Germans are still held in Russia, while Adenauer's figures are 10,000.

Adenauer's remarks were "offending the Soviet troops." In a later session Adenauer denied he had accused the Soviet troops of war crimes. He appealed to the Soviets for a change of heart on the issue of the prisoners.

President Says Political Party Should Be United By Common Faith, Conviction
By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—Do you know why you're a Democrat or a Republican—at least to the point of saying precisely what makes the two parties truly different?
This doesn't apply to the independent voter who shifts from election to election, making his choice on individuals and issues, but to the voter who regularly votes a Democratic or Republican ticket.
In a 2,500-word talk last Saturday in Denver to the 48 Republican state chairmen, President Eisenhower attempted to explain why Republicans should be able to go out with fervor to line up new recruits for the party.
The President said a political party should be held together by a common faith, a common conviction. The Republicans, he said, should be held together by a "cause."
He said: "Just remember the cause for which you are working is to make certain that government is to do for the people those things which they cannot do for themselves, or so well do, but we are not going to interfere with those things which are the proper province of the individual."
This was a return to the Republicans' theme in the 1952 elections when, among other things, they complained there was too much government interference under the Democrats.
Democrats, reading Eisenhower's remarks, may feel he wasn't very precise. They'd probably argue: "We're as much against unnecessary government interference as the Republicans."
As evidence that the final judges—the people themselves—don't think the Democrats interfere too much, the latter might point to the 1954 elections in which the Democrats were returned to control of Congress.
A person watching both parties from a distance—across the oceans or the borders—must often be puzzled by what the Democrats and Republicans claim are their differences.
Democrats Protest
The Democrats have protested for years, and are still doing it, that the Republicans are the party of big business. But under the Democrats big business continued to get bigger.
For years the Republicans saw "creeping socialism" in Democratic programs. But, although both parties insist on their belief in free enterprise, neither apparently believes in it absolutely.
Both parties—through their support for tariffs to protect American businesses, subsidies, particularly for the farmers, and other help and controls—admit enterprise cannot be completely free and, in some cases, can't survive that way.
For years the Republicans had few kind words for what they called the "welfare state" philosophy of the Democrats. But when they took over they not only did not repeal a single piece of the Roosevelt-Truman social legislation, but even added some improvements—for instance, in boosting social security payments and coverage.
It would be helpful to the voters in the 1956 elections if Democrats and Republicans explained in precise and unmistakable terms what they claim makes them different even though, to a foreigner, they might still look like twins.

Mount St. Mary's Begins 148th Year On Tuesday With Solemn Mass; 591 Students Are Enrolled

Mount St. Mary's College, Emmitsburg, Md., second oldest Catholic College in the United States, will begin its 148th academic year Tuesday morning, September 13, with a capacity enrollment of 591 students. The formal opening will get under way with a solemn mass of the Holy Ghost in the College Chapel celebrated by Rt. Rev. Msgr. John L. Sheridan, president of the college. Classes will begin at 11:15 a.m.

Actually, 247 freshmen students returned to the campus Sept. 8 for an orientation program that extended through Sept. 12. Following registration the freshmen undertook a testing program and heard talks by various members of the faculty and administration. Participating officers were Rt. Rev. Msgr. John L. Sheridan, Rt. Rev. William F. Culhane, vice president; Rev. Francis P. Kearney, dean of studies; Rev. William D. McGonigle, dean of men; Rev. Robert Kline, chaplain; Rev. Joseph B. Tremonti, C.S.V., director of guidance; Bernard S. Kaliss, registrar and assistant dean of studies; and Dr. John J. Dillon Jr., director of public relations. Campus leaders supplemented the work of the faculty.

Enrollment figures at Mount St. Mary's top last year's total of 470 by 112 students, the largest since immediately after World War II. Most of the gains were in the freshman class. A breakdown of figures shows, in addition to the freshmen, 137 sophomores, 108 juniors, 94 seniors, and 5 special students.

Seniors In Pangborn

Senior students will be housed in Pangborn Hall, new $400,000 residence hall, which will be opened for the first time. Formal dedication of the building will take place at a later date.

Four additional faculty members have been added to the staff: Ralph M. Joly will teach philosophy; Harry Prongas, economics; Thomas Howard, English, and Thomas Frailey will resume classes in business law. Rev. Philip Barrett, now studying in Rome, will join the faculty in October.

Incomplete figures on the freshman class show a geographical distribution as follows: Pennsylvania, 62 students; Maryland, 40; New York, 37; New Jersey, 34; District of Columbia, 17; Delaware 12; Connecticut, 10; Virginia, 8; Massachusetts, West Virginia, and Puerto Rico, 3 each; Ohio and Florida, 2 each; Michigan, 1; Germany, 1.

Seminary Classes

Classes in the Mount St. Mary's Seminary will begin on Sept. 19, with approximately 115 students enrolled, about the same as last year. The seminarians returned to the campus September 8 with registration and the annual retreat extending from Sept. 9 to Sept. 16. Ordinations for the diaconate and minor orders will be given Sept. 16-17 in the college chapel.

Seminary enrollment represents approximately 27 different dioceses in 20 different states.

In March 1861, Daniel I. Beltzhoover, who had long been a teacher at Mount St. Mary's, resigned his duties to enter the confederate army. A West Point graduate and a classmate of General Grant, he was made a colonel in the Confederate forces and faced his former classmate in several battles along the Mississippi. He was in charge of artillery in the defense of Mobile.

Fr. Tremonti Tours European Colleges

The Rev. Joseph B. Tremonti, C.S.V., Ph.D., completed a two months study for the American Council On Education that took him through four European countries. Purpose of the trip was to make a comparative study of personnel services available to foreign students as compared with those in the United States.

Visiting France, Spain, Italy, and Switzerland, Fr. Tremonti consulted at the following universities: Genoa, Saragoza, Barcelona, Paris, Geneva, Bausanna, Bern, Milan, Bologna, Florence, Rome, Naples, Toulouse.

Largest of the Universities on Fr. Tremonti's tour was the University of Paris with 46,000 students. Two others, Naples and Rome, had more than 20,000 students enrolled; three, Milan, Bologna and Florence, had over 10,000 students. Lausanne was the smallest of the institutions with 1,600 students.

Fr. Tremonti used a 15 page questionnaire in working up the materials for his study.

GERMAN STUDENT ENTERS MOUNT

Heinz A. Schneppen, Westphalia, Germany, enters Mount St. Mary's in the current semester as an exchange student under terms of the Fulbright awards for a year's study. Twenty-four years old, Schneppen has already concluded more than three years of study at the Universities of Munster, Freiburg, and Munich, where he was a leader in the youth movement.

An orphan Schneppen is the oldest of three children. President of the "New Germany" Catholic Youth organization, he is particularly interested in becoming acquainted with similar organizations in the United States. He is attracted also to the teaching profession and hopes to carve out a career in that area. A student of history and literature, he is greatly interested in the American tradition of human rights.

Last year another German exchange student, Hans Klein, completed his stay at Mount St. Mary's and returned to Germany.

Sixteen Campus Groups Offer Mount Students Wide Choice Of Many Interesting Activities

Sixteen campus organizations, some academic, some merely social, enable Mountaineer students to find some activities through the year to keep themselves pleasantly engaged.

The Athletic Association, composed of delegates elected from each class, directs the extensive intramural program at the college under the guidance of the athletic department. The program consists of touch football, volleyball, basketball, softball, tennis, handball and others. In team sports participation is on a hall basis. The athletic association supervises equipment, rules, standings, and awards trophies.

The Bishop Sheen Mission Unit is a charter member of the Catholic Students' Mission Crusade, with its principal purpose to promote knowledge of the missionary work of the Catholic Church through prayer, study, and sacrifice. Papal approval was given to the crusade in 1925 by Pope Pius XI.

The Forensic Council represents the college in the field of interest-collegiate debating. The Club is a member of the Cardinal Gibbons Debating League consisting of colleges from Maryland and the District of Columbia. Debaters move outside the league to argue with teams from Penn., Princeton, Fordham, and elsewhere. They also take part in WMAR's TV debates.

The Glee Club offers an opportunity for those with vocal ability to sing in live concerts on the campus and elsewhere. Frequently throughout the year the choraleers make appearances on TV. Highlights of the program are the certs through the year and has won popular renown for its progress at athletic events.

The Dante and Shamrock Clubs are open respectively to students of Italian and Irish descent. Both attempt to familiarize members with national history, culture. In addition they are active socially, and the Shamrock Club sponsors the annual field day open to all students in the college.

Veterans Club

The Veterans Club attempts to promote the assimilation of returning veterans into normal college, community, and domestic relations. It promotes fellowship and understanding among members and offers a program of social activities.

The Science Club offers students a way of gaining a more appreciative understanding of the pure sciences by creating a more active interest in the application of science. It aims also as aiding students to integrate material so that they may be better able to apply their knowledge correctly.

The Pridwin is the Mount St. Mary's Yearbook, named after the shield of King Arthur on which is inscribed the figure of the Blessed Virgin. It is the verbal and pictorial repository of student memories and is staffed largely by seniors and juniors.

Mountain Echo

The Mountain Echo is the official campus publication of Mount St. Mary's devoted to the interests of the college, its student body, and alumni. It is published monthly and staffed by students from all classes.

The St. John's Berchman's Society consists of those students who assist at religious functions in the College Chapel.

The National Federation of Catholic College Student unites the student bodies of more than 200 Catholic colleges across the country. The Federation's main function is to facilitate and co-ordinate work of the various extra-curricular groups on individual college campuses, and to represent the opinion of the American Catholic College student in those areas of business, political, and social life affecting student interest.

The Student Council, composed of elected representatives from each class, is the governing body of the College. All student problems are handled by the Council which acts as a liaison between students and administration.

The Sock and Buskin Society is the dramatic society of Mount St. Mary's. Students interested in acting and stagecraft display their talents in four productions a year.

3-MAN COUNCIL GUIDES SPORTS AFFAIRS AT MSM

Although in recent years Mount St. Mary's cagers have posted more successful records than other varsity teams, the college maintains a broad program of intercollegiate athletics to permit wide student participation.

The fall sports program offers intercollegiate competition in soccer and cross country; winter brings the cagers on tap, and in the spring Mountaineer athletes participate in baseball, track, tennis and golf.

All athletic teams compete in the 15 team Mason-Dixon Conference and the college is also a member of the NCAA. The success of the program has proven that the small college with a sound approach to athletics can still turn out successful intercollegiate squads at no sacrifice to the scholastic program. Mount St. Mary's administrators feel that there is a proper place for athletics in college life.

The athletic policy at Mount St. Mary's is directed by a three-man athletic council directly responsible to the president and council.

The chairman of the athletic council is the Rev. Carl J. Fives, treasurer, who succeeds the late Rev. John F. Cogan; Rev. William McGonigle, dean of men, who replaces Rev. John J. McGovern, and John J. Dillon Jr.

Both the physical education program and varsity sports are in the hands of coaches James J. Phelan, who handles basketball and baseball, and James C. McKeon, who tutors soccer, cross country, and track. Tennis is coached by Dr. Gilbert Oddo. Team captains direct golf.

In addition to varsity competition, a wide intramural program of sports offers activities to sports-minded participants. There is a league play on a hall basis in softball, basketball, touch football and volleyball. Tennis, pool, badminton, handball, and other sports are played on a tourney basis.

DOMINIC GRECO 25 YEARS AT MT. ST. MARY'S

It has been twenty-five years since Dominic C. Greco, associate professor of biology joined the faculty of Mount St. Mary's College. A native of Nesquehoning, Pa., he took his undergraduate work at the Catholic University of America, Washington, D. C., where he had a fine record as an intercollegiate boxer. Following his graduation in 1928, he taught biology for a year at Xavier University, Cincinnati, O. In 1930 he received his M.S. from Columbia U.

Married to the former Laura Poff of Nesquehoning, Professor Greco is the father of two boys George and William George, after three years in science at Mount St. Mary's, is now a junior in the University of Maryland Dental School, where he ranks 4th in his class. Bill, a graduate of St. Joseph's High, Emmitsburg, will enter Mount St. Mary's this fall.

During World War II, when Mountaineer students were in the main either Navy-V5 or Navy V-12 students, Greco was in charge of communication for the V-5 students, handling all the Morse code demanded by the Navy for the fledgling pilots.

In addition to his teaching duties at Mount St. Mary's, Greco is a member of the science committee which screens applicants for professional schools. He has served also on the library and guidance committees. Earlier he coached boxing at the college to supplement the athletic program until the sport was discontinued.

Active in town affairs, he is a frequent speaker at many meetings of local organizations. Interested in athletics and the welfare of the Emmitsburg youngsters he is mainly responsible for the athletic program at St. Joseph's High School where he serves as athletic director. He has also headed the St. Joseph's PTA group.

Few professors at the Mount are more genuinely respected by the students. Through the years Professor Greco has always been available to handle student problems both at school and at his home just opposite the new St. Euphemia's cemetery on route 15. Almost any day during the school year, one can find a student perched on the steps talking over a problem. And when the alumni come flocking back for Exi or Homecoming, he is one of the first teachers they seek out.

Mother Seton Founded SJC 146 Years Ago With Money Given By Samuel S. Cooper

St. Joseph College will open its doors to young women students for the 146th time since Mother Seton came to Emmitsburg in June 1809. A New York widow with five children, she passed through the village when it was not quite twenty-five years old, enroute to her school property a half mile south of the town.

Elizabeth Ann Seton, foundress of the Sisters of Charity in America, had been teaching in Baltimore after leaving her native city a year before. Finding the house on Paca St., a little too small for the large number of pupils who came to her, she began looking around for a larger place. A wealthy Virginian, Samuel Cooper, who planned to become a priest, gave her a sum of money for a new school for girls, stipulating that she establish it at Emmitsburg.

It took the party of women two days to make the trip from Baltimore to Emmitsburg. They stopped overnight at Westminster, then known as Winchester. The city women rode in a covered wagon and the road was so rough they were "obliged to walk the horses all the way," as Elizabeth Seton wrote in her diary. "The pigs and geese came out to greet us," she said.

Inadequate Quarters
When Mother Seton and her party reached the property, they saw only a half-finished stone farmhouse surrounded by wild grass. They were invited to stay in a log cabin at Mount St. Mary's College until the house was completed.

At the end of July the Sisters moved back to the Valley. Mother Seton's group included sixteen women among whom were her three daughters, Anna, Catherine and Rebecca. Her sisters-in-law, Harriet and Cecilia Seton, were also part of the group.

The Stone House, as it has since been called, housed the young community through the first autumn and Christmas in the Valley. Most of the women were from the city and not used to the hardships of early Emmitsburg. In the winter, snow sifted in through the garret roof over the women sleeping on the floor.

White House Built
There was no pump in the house and drinking water came from a spring in the hollow west of the house. Washing was done along the banks of Tom's Creek.

Priests from Mount St. Mary's said Mass in the small chapel on the first floor of the Stone House.

Because of the over-crowded conditions the White House was built in 1810 from funds given to the Sisters of charitable friends. They moved to their new home in February of that year. Elizabeth Seton later described the new school as follows: "We have a neat little chapel, thirty cells holding a bed, chair and table each, a large infirmary, a very spacious refectory besides parlor, school room, my working room, etc."

Outstanding Educator
The two Seton boys, William and Richard, were students at the Mount. Her sisters-in-law, Harriet and Cecilia Seton, died in the early months of school.

In spite of the often grave hardships, the convent and school both continued to grow. Some women from Emmitsburg joined the community, known then as the "Sisters of St. Joseph," and they were a help to the city-bred women who learned local ways of doing things from these capable Emmitsburgians.

School Begun
Mother Seton, head of the school, was outstanding as an educator. She had received most of her early education from her brilliant father, Dr. Richard Bayley, New York physician and first professor of anatomy at Columbia University. She was taught more than the social graces of the young woman of the Revolutionary period. Although skilled in French, music and art, Elizabeth Seton had a head for philosophy, literature and science.

Some of the women who joined the sisterhood were from the best families of the day and were sufficiently well-educated to make excellent teachers.

As time went on the Sisters tried to augment their meager resources by sewing for the men and boys at the Mount. Coats, vests, pantaloons and other garments were cut and sewed in a variety of sizes. But without a sewing machine the work was tedious. It became clear that the source of revenue for the Sisters of Charity at Emmitsburg would have to come from the girls' school. So it was that St. Joseph's became a school for girls representing many of the better families of the day.

The Sisters learned with relief that the wife of the English consul at Alexandria was anxious to have her daughter admitted to St. Joseph's.

Publisher's Daughter

This was in 1812. As time went on the Patton girls arrived and Robert Goodloe Harper, son of Robert Harper, who founded the Adams Centinel in 1800, sent his daughters to St. Joseph's. The paper was later published by Robert Goodloe Harper under the name, "Sentinel." In 1869, Harper, feeling the advances of age, consolidated his paper with "The Star."

Maximilian Godefroy, Baltimore artist and architect, sent his daughters to the Emmitsburg school. Young members of the famous Carroll family of Maryland, niece of Archbishop Carroll, were pupils. Dr. Pierre Chateaufort, well-known French physician of Baltimore, sent his daughter, Emily, to St. Joseph's and his sons to the Mount. A great help to Mother Seton was Rev. Fr. John DuBois, president of Mount St. Mary's, who helped her organize the school and make some of the rules. They were both experienced in school organization and the school grew in "piety and culture."

School Routine
As the school grew the organization became more intricate and the curriculum expanded. The principal subjects were reading, spelling, grammar, geography, arithmetic as a basis, and music, needlework, and languages as electives. French, Italian and Spanish were taught. Mother Seton's daughter, Catherine, taught music to the girls for the salary of $200 a year.

The routine of the school varied little from summer to winter. The girls rose at a quarter to six, were allowed a half hour to dress and were at prayers by 6:15 a.m. Breakfast was served at 7:30 o'clock. The time before eating was divided between Mass and study. Classes began at 8 o'clock and continued until 11:30 o'clock when the rosary was recited. Recreation was held from dinner-time until mid-afternoon. Classes were resumed at 3 o'clock. A second recreation period was held and the girls were allowed to study until supper at 7:15 o'clock. The younger girls were sent to bed immediately after supper.

Besides the school for boarders and the convent for the Sisters, Mother Seton founded a day school in February 22, 1810. This school is referred to in the council book of the community as "St. Joseph's class" as distinct from the boarders. The book which covers the years from 1813 to 1821 proves that although orphans were received and were charged nothing, other girls making partial payments were part of St. Joseph's class.

Whether boarders or day students there is no question that their education was received in a religious atmosphere and under teachers who were largely Sisters or priests from Mount St. Mary's College.

Mother Seton died from tuberculosis in February 4, 1821, at the age of 46. A convert from Episcopalianism to Catholicism, she made an invaluable contribution to the Revolutionary period. Although skilled in French, music and art, Elizabeth Seton had a head for philosophy, literature and science.

Elizabeth Seton was handicapped

Mother Seton Founded SJC 146 Years Ago With Money Given By Samuel S. Cooper

St. Joseph College will open its doors to young women students for the 146th time since Mother Seton came to Emmitsburg in June 1809. A New York widow with five children, she passed through the village when it was not quite twenty-five years old, enroute to her school property a half mile south of the town.

Elizabeth Ann Seton, foundress of the Sisters of Charity in America, had been teaching in Baltimore after leaving her native city a year before. Finding the house on Paca St. a little too small for the large number of pupils who came to her, she began looking around for a larger place. A wealthy Virginian, Samuel Cooper, who planned to become a priest, gave her a sum of money for a new school for girls, stipulating that she establish it at Emmitsburg.

It took the party of women two days to make the trip from Baltimore to Emmitsburg. They stopped overnight at Westminster, then known as Winchester. The city women rode in a covered wagon and the road was so rough they were "obliged to walk the horses all the way," as Elizabeth Seton wrote in her diary. "The pigs and geese came out to greet us," she said.

Inadequate Quarters

When Mother Seton and her party reached the property, they saw only a half-finished stone farmhouse surrounded by wild grass. They were invited to stay in a log cabin at Mount St. Mary's College until the house was completed.

At the end of July the Sisters moved back to the Valley. Mother Seton's group included sixteen women among whom were her three daughters, Annina, Catherine and Rebecca. Her sisters-in-law, Harriet and Cecilia Seton, were also part of the group.

The Stone House, as it has since been called, housed the young community through the first autumn and Christmas in the Valley. Most of the women were from the city and not used to the hardships of early Emmitsburg. In the winter, snow sifted in through the garret roof over the women sleeping on the floor.

White House Built

There was no pump in the house and drinking water came from a spring in the hollow west of the house. Washing was done along the banks of Tom's Creek.

Priests from Mount St. Mary's said Mass in the small chapel on the first floor of the Stone House.

Because of the over-crowded conditions the White House was built in 1810 from funds given to the Sisters of charitable friends. They moved to their new home in February of that year. Elizabeth Seton later described the new school as follows: "We have a neat little chapel, thirty cells holding a bed, chair and table each, a large refectory, a very spacious refectory besides parlor, school room, my working room, etc."

Outstanding Educator

The two Seton boys, William and Richard, were students at the Mount. Her sisters-in-law, Harriet and Cecilia Seton, died in the early months of school.

In spite of the often grave hardships, the convent and school both continued to grow. Some women from Emmitsburg joined the community, known then as the "Sisters of St. Joseph," and they were a help to the city-bred women who learned local ways of doing things from these capable Emmitsburgians.

School Begun

Mother Seton, head of the school, was outstanding as an educator. She had received most of her early education from her brilliant father, Dr. Richard Bayley, New York physician and first professor of anatomy at Columbia University. She was taught more than the social frills of the young woman of the Revolutionary period. Although skilled in French, music and art, Elizabeth Seton had a head for philosophy, literature and science.

Some of the women who joined the sisterhood were from the best families of the day and were sufficiently well-educated to make excellent teachers.

As time went on the Sisters tried to augment their meager resources by sewing for the men and boys at the Mount. Coats, vests, pantaloons and other garments were cut and sewed in a variety of sizes. But without a sewing machine the work was tedious. It became clear that the source of revenue for the Sisters of Charity at Emmitsburg would have to come from the girls' school. So it was that St. Joseph's became a school for girls representing many of the better families of the day.

The Sisters learned with relief that the wife of the English consul at Alexandria was anxious to have her daughter admitted to St. Joseph's.

Publisher's Daughter

This was in 1812. As time went on the Patton girls arrived and Robert Goodloe Harper, son of Robert Harper, who founded the Adams Centinel in 1800, sent his daughters to St. Joseph's. The paper was later published by Robert Goodloe Harper under the name, "Sentinel." In 1869, Harper, feeling the advances of age, consolidated his paper with "The Star."

Maximilian Godefroy, Baltimore artist and architect, sent his daughter to the Emmitsburg school. Young members of the famous Carroll family of Maryland, niece of Archbishop Carroll, were pupils. Dr. Pierre Chastard, well-known French physician of Baltimore, sent his daughter, Emily, to St. Joseph's and his sons to the Mount.

A great help to Mother Seton was Rev. Fr. John DuBois, president of Mount St. Mary's, who helped her organize the school and make some of the rules. They were both experienced in school organization and the school grew in "piety and culture."

School Routine

As the school grew the organization became more intricate and the curriculum expanded. The principal subjects were reading, spelling, grammar, geography, arithmetic as a basis, and music, needlework, and languages as electives. French, Italian and Spanish were taught. Mother Seton's daughter, Catherine, taught music to the girls for the salary of $200 a year.

The routine of the school varied little from summer to winter. The girls rose at a quarter to six, were allowed a half hour to dress and were at prayers by 6:15 a.m. Breakfast was served at 7:30 o'clock. The time before eating was divided between Mass and study. Classes began at 8 o'clock and continued until 11:30 o'clock when the rosary was recited. Recreation was held from dinner-time until mid-afternoon. Classes were resumed at 3 o'clock. A second recreation period was held and the girls were allowed to study until supper at 7:15 o'clock. The younger girls were sent to bed immediately after supper.

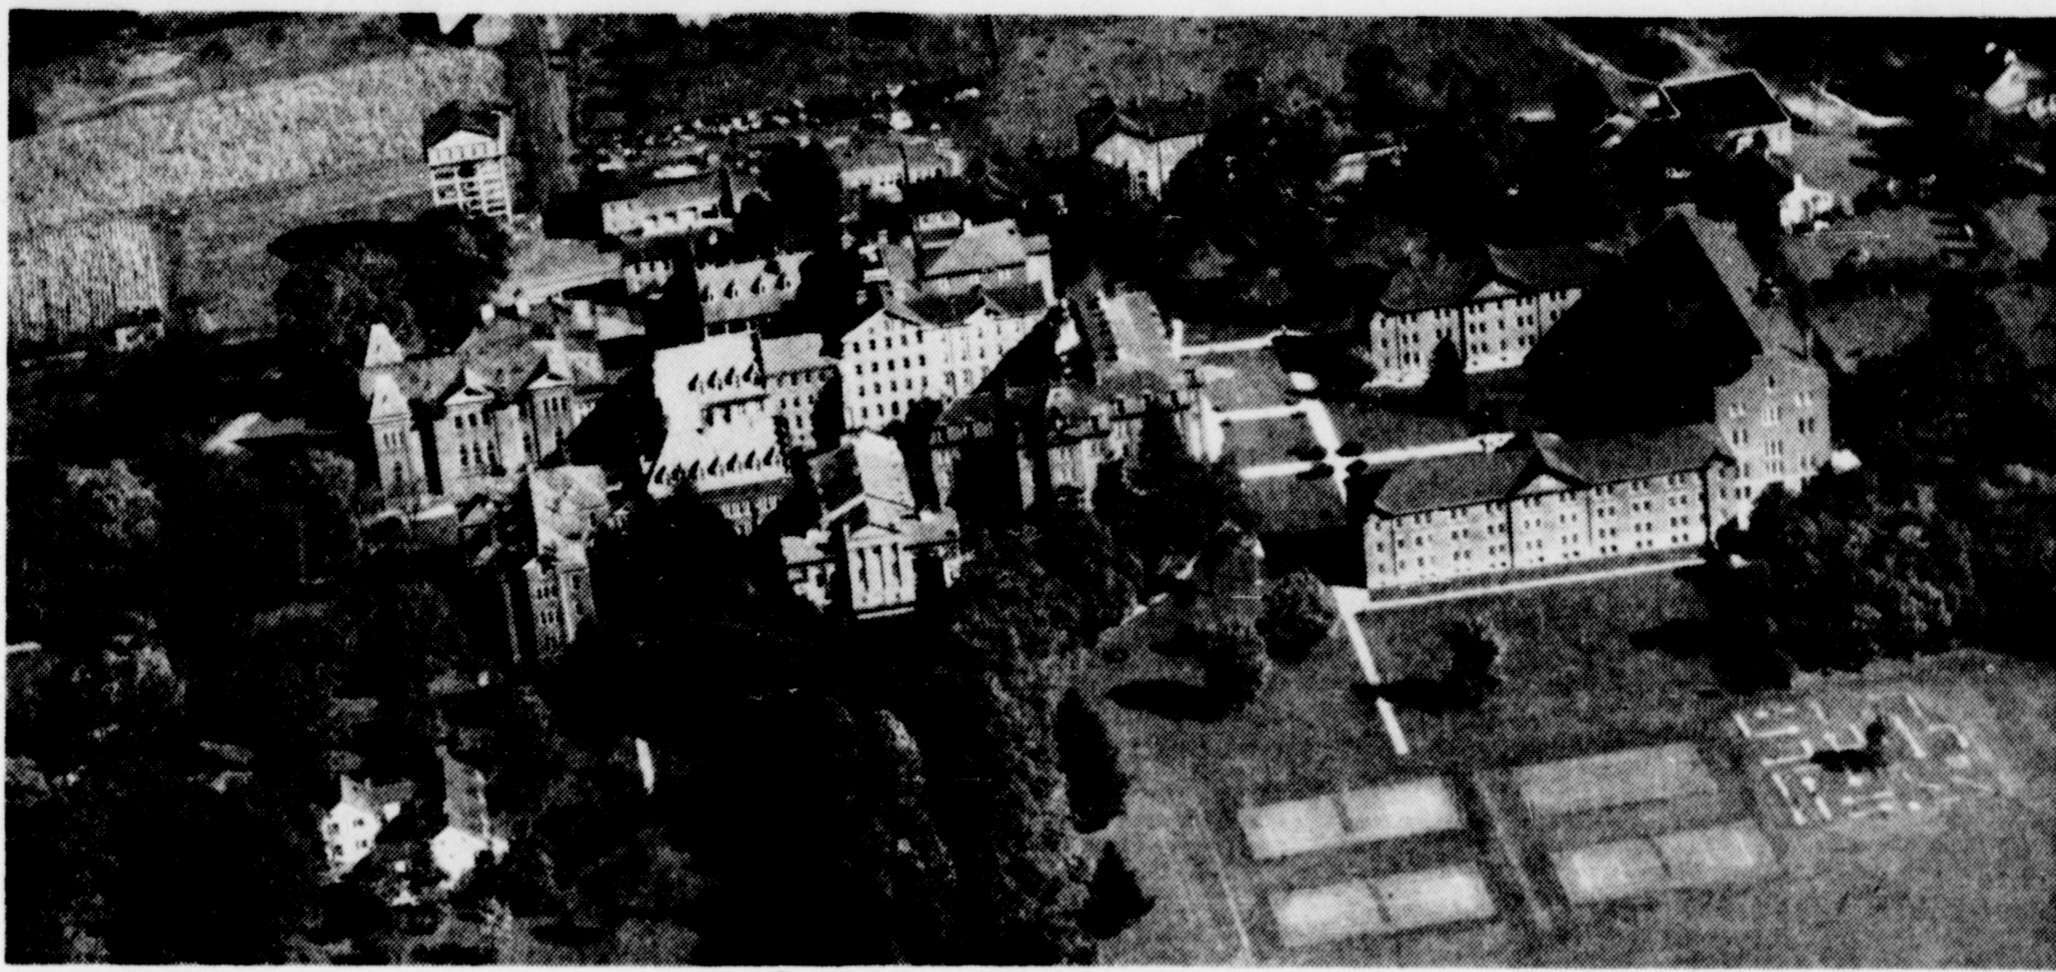

Besides the school for boarders and the convent for the Sisters, Mother Seton founded a day school in February 22, 1810. This school is referred to in the council book of the community as "St. Joseph's class" as distinct from the boarders. The book which covers the years from 1813 to 1821 proves that although orphans were received and were charged nothing, other girls making partial payments were part of St. Joseph's class.

Whether boarders or day students there is no question that their education was received in a religious atmosphere and under teachers who were largely Sisters or priests from Mount St. Mary's College.

Mother Seton died from tuberculosis in February 4, 1821, at the age of 46. A convert from Episcopalianism to Catholicism, she made an invaluable contribution to 19th century education in keeping with American traditions of the highest rank.

273 STUDENTS ATTEND SJC'S FALL SEMESTER

St. Joseph College opens its 146th year with a total enrollment of 273 students. Of these, 78 are freshmen, 6 are new students with advanced standing, and 37 are postulant and members of the community who will pursue courses at the college on various levels.

Charter Amended

A true cosmopolite, native of a large port city and onetime capital of her country, Elizabeth Seton was in no way provincial. She proved her ability to adapt herself to any situation. She was a pioneer of education.

In 1902, by an amendment of the Corporation Act of 1816, St. Joseph's was empowered to confer degrees. Since that date it has continued a four year college of liberal arts and sciences, offering to Catholic womanhood the opportunity of securing higher education under the auspices approved by state boards of education and leading educational associations.

As a Catholic liberal arts institution, St. Joseph's seeks the fourfold development of the whole woman, spiritually, intellectually, socially and physically. Its aim is the formation of the true and perfect Christian, the well-balanced, emotionally integrated woman who "thinks, judges and acts constantly and consistently in accordance with right reason illuminated by the supernatural light of the example and teaching of Christ" (Pope Pius XI).

College Keynote

The college motto, "Vincit qui se vincit," the conqueror who conquers himself, strikes the keynote to these aims which stress the development of a self-controlled woman of character, one who is keenly aware of her responsibilities to God, to her country, to her neighbor and to herself.

Many picturesque, historic landmarks are scattered about the beautiful campus at the foot of the Blue Ridge. The Stone House (1809), original dwelling of Mother Seton, still dominates the slight rise of ground overlooking Tom's Creek. Her second home, The White House (1810), is a favorite spot of pilgrims as it served as America's first parochial school. The Tuscan church, built in 1839, is at the head of a long tree-lined avenue leading to the college. Verdier (1923) houses the science laboratories, lecture rooms, and gymnasium while a separate wing contains the swimming pool. Marillac (1925) and Seton (1926) are the two residence halls adjoining the administration building known as Vincent (1926). The latter also houses the auditorium, radio studio and journalism department.

The Home Economics building was erected in 1948 and comprises the lecture rooms, food and clothing laboratories, art room and a complete Home Management Unit. The Library, dedicated to the memory of Sister Paula Dunn, offers a completely equipped reading and reference room, browsing room and a separate division for the education laboratory and lecture rooms.

The Sisterhood established by Mother Seton in 1809 became affiliated with the Sisters of Charity of St. Vincent de Paul of Paris in 1850. The faculty is made up of the Sisters, Vincentian priests, secular priests and lay professors from Mount St. Mary's College, and lay women.

St. Joseph College is accredited by the State Board of Maryland, the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, the University of the State of New York, the University of Puerto Rico and the State Boards of Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Louisiana, Virginia and New Jersey.

Enrollment figures at Mount St. Mary's top last year's total of 470 by 112 students, the largest since immediately after World War II. Most of the gains were in the freshman class. A breakdown of figures shows, in addition to the freshmen, 137 sophomores, 108 juniors, 94 seniors, and 5 special students.

Seniors In Pangborn
Senior students will be housed in Pangborn Hall, new $400,000 residence hall, which will be opened for the first time. Formal dedication of the building will take place at a later date.

Four additional faculty members have been added to the staff: Ralph M. Joly will teach philosophy; Harry Pronzas, economics; Thomas Howard, English, and Thomas Frailey will resume classes in business law. Rev. Philip Barrett, now studying in Rome, will join the faculty in October.

Incomplete figures on the freshman class show a geographical distribution as follows: Pennsylvania, 62 students; Maryland, 40; New York, 37; New Jersey, 34; District of Columbia, 17; Delaware 12; Connecticut, 10; Virginia, 8; Massachusetts, West Virginia, and Puerto Rico, 3 each; Ohio and Florida, 2 each; Michigan, 1; Germany, 1.

Seminary Classes
Classes in the Mount St. Mary's Seminary will begin on Sept. 19, with approximately 115 students enrolled, about the same as last year. The seminarians returned to the campus September 8 with registration and the annual retreat extending from Sept. 9 to Sept. 16. Ordinations for the deaconate and minor orders will be given Sept. 16-17 in the college chapel.

Seminary enrollment represents approximately 27 different dioceses in 20 different states.

In March 1861, Daniel I. Beltzhoover, who had long been a teacher at Mount St. Mary's, resigned his duties to enter the confederate army. A West Point graduate and a classmate of General Grant, he was made a colonel in the Confederate forces and faced his former classmate in several battles along the Mississippi. He was in charge of artillery in the defense of Mobile.

Fr. Tremonti Tours European Colleges

The Rev. Joseph B. Tremonti, C.S.V., Ph.D., completed a two months study for the American Council On Education that took him through four European countries. Purpose of the trip was to make a comparative study of personnel services available to foreign students as compared with those in the United States.

Visiting France, Spain, Italy, and Switzerland, Fr. Tremonti consulted at the following universities: Genoa, Saragoza, Barcelona, Paris, Geneva, Bausanna, Bern, Milan, Bologna, Florence, Rome, Naples, Toulouse.

Largest of the Universities on Fr. Tremonti's tour was the University of Paris with 46,000 students. Two others, Naples and Rome, had more than 20,000 students enrolled; three, Milan, Bologna and Florence, had over 10,000 students. Lausanne was the smallest of the institutions with 1,600 students.

Fr. Tremonti used a 15 page questionnaire in working up the materials for his study.

GERMAN STUDENT ENTERS MOUNT

Heinz A. Schnepfen, Westphalia, Germany, enters Mount St. Mary's in the current semester as an exchange student under terms of the Fulbright awards for a year's study. Twenty-four years old, Schnepfen has already concluded more than three years of study at the Universities of Munster, Freiburg, and Munich, where he was a leader in the youth movement.

An orphan Schnepfen is the oldest of three children. President of the "New Germany" Catholic Youth organization, he is particularly interested in becoming acquainted with similar organizations in the United States. He is attracted also to the teaching profession and hopes to carve out a career in that area. A student of history and literature, he is greatly interested in the American tradition of human rights.

Last year another German exchange student, Hans Klein, completed his stay at Mount St. Mary's and returned to Germany.

Sixteen Campus Groups Offer Mount Students Wide Choice Of Many Interesting Activities

Sixteen campus organizations, some academic, some merely social, enable Mountaineer students to find some activities through the year to keep themselves pleasantly engaged.

The Athletic Association, composed of delegates elected from each class, directs the extensive intramural program at the college under the guidance of the athletic department. The program consists of touch football, volleyball, basketball, softball, tennis, handball and others. In team sports participation is on a half basis. The athletic association supervises equipment, rules, standings, and awards trophies.

The Bishop Sheen Mission Unit is a charter member of the Catholic Students' Mission Crusade, with its principal purpose to promote knowledge of the missionary work of the Catholic Church through prayer, study, and sacrifice. Papal approval was given to the crusade in 1923 by Pope Pius XI.

Forensic Council
The Forensic Council represents the college in the field of inter-collegiate debating. The Club is a member of the Cardinal Gibbons Debating League consisting of colleges from Maryland and the District of Columbia. Debaters move outside the league to argue with teams from Penn., Princeton, Fordham, and elsewhere. They also take part in WMAR's TV debates.

The Glee Club offers an opportunity for those with vocal ability to sing in live concerts on the campus and elsewhere. Frequently throughout the year the choraleers make appearances on TV. Highlights of the program are the Christmas concert and the Spring Festival.

The International Relations Club aims at stimulating interest in national and international affairs through discussion and panel groups. Speakers address the group from time to time throughout the year.

Monogram Club
The Monogram Club consists of varsity lettermen in the various sports of the intercollegiate program. Members help the athletic association in the direction of intramural sports and aid the athletic department with ushering, ushering and other jobs during the year.

The Monsignor Tierney Honor Society is a scholastic society open to those whose general average is above 85 per cent. Members are elected provisionally at the end of their junior year. Those who maintain the average throughout the senior year are graduated with "Honors" and receive the key of the Society. This is the highest honor available to a Mountaineer student.

The Mountain Echo is the campus paper published monthly and devoted to the interests of the college, its student body, and alumni. It is published monthly and staffed by students from all classes.

The St. John's Berchman's Society consists of those students who assist at religious functions in the College Chapel.

The National Federation of Catholic College Student unites the ceris through the year and has won popular renown for its progress at athletic events.

The Dante and Shamrock Clubs are open respectively to students of Italian and Irish descent. Both attempt to familiarize members with national history, culture. In addition they are active socially, and the Shamrock Club sponsors the annual field day open to all students in the college.

Veterans Club
The Veterans Club attempts to promote the assimilation of returning veterans into normal college, community, and domestic relations. It promotes fellowship and understanding among members and offers a program of social activities.

The Science Club offers students a way of gaining a more appreciative understanding of the pure sciences by creating a more active interest in the application of science. It aims also as aiding students to integrate material so that they may be better able to apply their knowledge correctly.

The Pridwin is the Mount St. Mary's Yearbook, named after the shield of King Arthur on which is inscribed the figure of the Blessed Virgin. It is the verbal and pictorial repository of student memories and is staffed largely by seniors and juniors.

Mountain Echo
The Mountain Echo is the official campus publication of Mount St. Mary's devoted to the interests of the college, its student body, and alumni. It is published monthly and staffed by students from all classes.

The St. John's Berchman's Society consists of those students who assist at religious functions in the College Chapel.

The National Federation of Catholic College Student unites the student bodies of more than 200 Catholic colleges across the country. The Federation's main function is to facilitate and co-ordinate work of the various extra-curricular groups on individual college campuses, and—to represent the opinion of the American Catholic College student in those areas of business, political, and social life affecting student interest.

The Student Council, composed of elected representatives from each class, is the governing body of the College. All student problems are handled by the Council which acts as a liaison between students and administration.

The Sock and Buskin Society is the dramatic society of Mount St. Mary's. Students interested in acting and stagecraft display their talents in four productions a year.

3-MAN COUNCIL GUIDES SPORTS AFFAIRS AT MSM

Although in recent years Mount St. Mary's cagers have posted more successful records than other varsity teams, the college maintains a broad program of inter-collegiate athletics to permit wide student participation.

The fall sports program offers intercollegiate competition in soccer and cross country; winter brings the cagers on tap, and in the spring Mountaineer athletes participate in baseball, track, tennis and golf.

All athletic teams compete in the 15 team Mason-Dixon Conference and the college is also a member of the NCAA. The success of the program has proven that the small college with a sound approach to athletics can still turn out successful intercollegiate squads at no sacrifice to the scholastic program. Mount St. Mary's administrators feel that there is a proper place for athletics in college life.

Three-Man Council
The athletic policy at Mount St. Mary's is directed by a three-man athletic council directly responsible ized in 1953 to promote better understanding in the student of the student of the philosophy and technique of industry and to develop in the student the highest sense of business ethics.

Other organizations such as the Adelphi, Metropolitan and Tri-state Clubs group students according to their home towns and generally carry on social events during vacations.

DOMINIC GRECO 25 YEARS AT MT. ST. MARY'S

It has been twenty-five years since Dominic C. Greco, associate professor of biology joined the faculty of Mount St. Mary's College. A native of Nesquehoning, Pa., he took his undergraduate work at the Catholic University of America, Washington, D. C., where he had a fine record as an intercollegiate boxer. Following his graduation—in 1928, he taught biology for a year at Xavier University, Cincinnati, O. In 1930 he received his M.S. from Columbia U.

Married to the former Laura Poff of Nesquehoning, Professor Greco is the father of two boys, George and William. George, after three years in science at Mount St. Mary's, is now a Junior in the University of Maryland Dental School, where he ranks 4th in his class. Bill, a graduate of St. Joseph's High, Emmitsburg, will enter Mount St. Mary's this fall.

During World War II, when Mountaineer students were in the main either Navy-V5 or Navy V-12 students, Greco was in charge of communication for the V-5 students, handling all the Morse code demanded by the Navy for the fledgling pilots.

In addition to his teaching duties at Mount St. Mary's, Greco is a member of the science committee which screens applicants for professional schools. He has served also on the library and guidance committees. Earlier he coached boxing at the college to supplement the athletic program until the sport was discontinued.

Active in town affairs, he is a frequent speaker at many meetings of local organizations. Interested in athletics and the welfare of the Emmitsburg youngsters he is mainly responsible for the athletic program at St. Joseph's High School where he serves as athletic director. He has also headed the St. Joseph's PTA group.

Few professors at the Mount are more genuinely respected by the students. Through the years Professor Greco has always been available to handle student problems both at school and at his home just opposite the new St. Euphemia's cemetery on route 15. Almost any day during the school year, one can find a student perched on the steps talking over a problem. And when the alumni come flocking back for Exi or Homecoming, he is one of the first teachers they seek out.

able to the president and council. The chairman of the athletic council is the Rev. Carl J. Fives, treasurer, who succeeds the late Rev. John F. Cogan; Rev. William McGonigle, dean of men, who replaces Rev. John J. McGovern, and John J. Dillon Jr.

Both the physical education program and varsity sports are in the hands of coaches James J. Phelan, who handles basketball and baseball, and James C. McKeon, who tutors soccer, cross country, and track. Tennis is coached by Dr. Gilbert Oddo. Team captains direct golf.

In addition to varsity competition, a wide intramural program of sports offers activities to sports-minded participants. There is a league play on a hall basis in softball, basketball, touch football and volleyball ball. Tennis, pool, badminton, handball, and other sports are played on a tourney basis.

CAMPUS GROUPS OFFER OUTLETS TO EVERY TASTE

Fourteen campus organizations exist on the campus at St. Joseph College to further companionship and mutual accomplishment of the student body.

All campus clubs have been integrated under the foremost organization at SJC, the CHILDREN OF MARY. As the head and the heart of campus activity, this club demands only love of the Mother of God and a desire to imitate her virtues as requirements for membership. New students wear the green ribbon of aspirants, and then, as the year progresses, the blue ribbon will replace the green as the mark of a full-fledged Child of Mary.

The COOPERATIVE GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION, of which every student is a member, has based its honor code upon the College motto, VINCIT QUI SE VINCIT. You, therefore, will have the two-fold responsibility of conquest of self and the upholding of the high standards of Saint Joseph College.

Dramatic Group
If student interest lies in grease-paint and footlights, the MELPOTHALANS, offers dramatic activity. A one-act play contest and fall and spring major productions provide the magic combination of work and fun for everyone.

The GLEE CLUB has a place for aspiring songsters. Christmas carolling, the annual spring concert, impromptu serenades are part of the Glee Club's activity which entertains as it enjoys a good time for itself.

Every student is a member of the VALLEY ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION, and every class claims participation and spirit in the annual competition for the Mother Seton Trophy. Nine sports activities — ranging from tennis to bowling, from swimming to ping pong — are sponsored by this association.

Student Publications
ALLEGRA, the happy girl, the true SJCienne, is the ideal behind the yearbook of this name. Published by the members of the graduating class.

VALLEY ECHO, resounding the news of the campus, is published monthly by the students of the journalism department. Reporters and photographers haunt the halls seeking bits of information that will attract the attention of the readers.

The newest campus organization is the LITURGY CLUB, which celebrates its second birthday this fall. By learning, through various club activities, to adapt the liturgy of the church to daily home life,

Gettysburg Editor Friend Of Setons

Catherine Josephine Seton was the only one of Mother Seton's five children present when her mother died at St. Joseph's, January 4, 1821. Annina and Rebecca had died shortly after coming to Emmitsburg and the boys, William and Richard, were not at home.

Kitty, who was not quite 21 that winter, went to live at the home of General Robert Goodloe Harper, Carroll Manor, Md., a close friend of the Setons for many years. Their daughter, Mary, who had been a student at St. Joseph's, had died, and the Harpers felt that Kitty could help replace their loss.

General Harper was editor of the "Adams Centinel" in the early 19th century, having inherited the weekly paper from his father, Robert Harper.

members help prepare themselves for Christian motherhood.

Hono. Society
To join PI DELTA PHI, the National French Honor Society, students must show command of the French language. However, on the annual French Day sponsored by the club, everyone's French is acceptable. SJC's Omega Chapter also conducts a nationwide contest yearly to promote an interest in and an understanding of the French nation.

NFCCS sounds forbidding to a newcomer, but it is this NATIONAL FEDERATION OF CATHOLIC COLLEGE STUDENTS which keeps Saint Joseph's in close contact with other Catholic colleges and universities throughout the United States.

Current events of world-wide importance are the basic interest of the INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS CLUB. Vivid debates, guest lecturers, and panel discussions are the means used by members to give vitality to this organization.

Other Organizations
BLESSED CLET MISSION UNIT beckons mission-minded SJCiennes. Knowledge, love and sacrifice are the main requirements for membership. Annually the Queen of Hearts Contest is sponsored by this unit of the CSMC for the benefit of the missions.

The HOME ECONOMICS CLUB offers a variety of activities to those whose interests lie in this field. The annual Christmas party for children of the neighborhood is a major project of this club.

With emphasis on social service the MARILLAC ASSOCIATION OF CATHOLIC ACTION attracts those who enjoy making others happy. Known by students as the MACA, this Catholic Action club strives to aid the aged, the infirm, and the lonely by visits, food baskets, and cheery mail.

SJC TRADITION DATES BACK TO MOTHER SETON

As long as there have been ivy-covered buildings enmeshed with a unifying love and loyalty, there have been college traditions. Notre Dame rallies around the fighting Irish, Georgetown boosts its "Hoya Hoya, Saka," and anyone from Massachusetts will sing "For Boston, for Boston!" at the drop of a hat. St. Joseph, too, from the first foot of the "A" to Our Lady of the Fields embedded in the woods, is steeped in enriching and well-loved traditions.

Perhaps the underlying spirit best spoken by the Alma Mater, "All Together," best exemplifies SJC campus traditions. In 1809 Mother Seton's small colony of sisters started "all togetherness" and it still prevails through the days of 1953. In September when freshmen arrive on the "A," a white-winged Sister will embrace them fondly and before they know it they are a very important part of the SJC family and part of "All Together."

Our Sisters — how much of their community tradition SJCiennes absorb! Their charity, especially demonstrated by love of the poor, becomes a part of each student's life after commencement has passed and faded into memories. They are our teachers, our guardians and models for these young college days. They help us to grow mentally, emotionally, physically and most of all spiritually.

Valley Welcome

Freshmen shall have an official welcome to our Valley. Just when they are settled in that complex but not unsolvable schedule, a night will come that is all theirs. The school turns out in a body to welcome the youngest member of the college, the Freshman class. This September each member of the class of '59 will receive a rose from her junior big sister and finally, enough four years later shall return the full bloomed rose to the true spirit of our Valley — our Blessed Mother. In a candlelight ceremony around Virgo Potens the graduates raise their voices in thanksgiving and farewell in one of the most treasured of commencement ceremonies, the Marial Soiree.

When the campus gets dressed up in autumn finery, Valley Home Weekend arrives and students play hostess to their parents. The weekend includes the traditional Academic Institute at which time the freshmen receive their academic caps in an impressive chap-

Dr. Louis Clark Does Original Work At SJC

In addition to his regular teaching load in the chemistry department at St. Joseph College, Dr. Louis Clark last year carried on original experimental work on the speed of chemical reactions at various temperatures in a specially constructed constant temperature bath which was in continuous operation in the chemistry lab.

Dr. Clark's investigation was a study of the decomposition of trichloroacetic acid alone and in glycerol. It was reported in the May issue of the Journal of the American Chemical Society.

Dr. Clark began his teaching at St. Joseph last year. He received his doctorate from Kansas State College and had formerly taught at Panhandle A and M College, Goodwell, Okla.

el ceremony After the tea at the Log Cabin on Tom's Creek, Dad gets a chance to trip the light fantastic with his daughter at the dance given in the parents' honor. Mass and brunch fill Sunday morning and then there is another capping only this time it's the sophomore nurses who receive the insignia of their profession.

March 19 rolls around in the middle of Lent and the Mount descends to share in the celebrations honoring our patron, St. Joseph, on his feast day. The Solemn High Mass and Vespers, sung by the seminarians, is a long and cherished tradition originating back in Mother Seton's time. It is not too surprising to find it flourishing a hundred forty-six years later and still one of the year's best occasions.

Freshman Class Day

Freshman class day will be highlighted with tree planting, a young sapling planted as a lasting remembrance of youthful spirits and hearts. The blazer ceremony, a long awaited event of sophomore year. The fresh white blazer embellished with the college emblem bespeaks college recognition of SJCiennes as worthy to wear its seal. Hands and especially, those fourth fingers, are the center of attraction on Junior Class Day. The college president places the college ring with all its deep meaning and significance on each junior's finger. The final class day comes with a touch of sadness and nostalgia. Four years of nurturing have passed and now the departing seniors leave their token of love to their Alma Mater on their last class day.

Senior year closes with many special and fond memories. The festivities of Senior Prom are followed by the Senior-Sophomore Farewell Little Sisters entertain their Big Sisters with a day packed to the brim with a resplendent

Verdier Building on the eastern boundary of St. Joseph College houses the chemistry and physics laboratory, the gymnasium and swimming pool, the nursing division and several science laboratories.

Annual Fashion Show Staged By Home Ecs

Highlight of the spring season at St. Joseph's is the annual fashion show and tea produced by the members of the Home Economics department under the direction of Miss Anna Mallon Chelington, instructor in home economics.

Students in the Home Ec Department serve as models while Miss Chelington does the narration. All garments modeled are projects of clothing students in the Home Ec Department. Usually the fashion show includes date and dance dresses, a lured garments separates, and complete ensembles.

Luncheon, class prompney and will and the perfect close of a perfect day — a candlelight serenade to the seniors.

The intimacy of the White House chapel appropriately lends itself to the Senior Novena of Thanksgiving offered for four fruitful years in this most blessed of valleys.

Honors Convocation

The evening before commencement, Honor Convocation is held in Seton Gardens where parents and friends have the opportunity to share in the honors and achievements of the graduates. The peak of the program is the awarding of the Carrell Medal to the member of the senior class chosen as an exemplar of all St. Joseph's desires of her students and in recognition of scholarly, moral, and social achievement.

Holidays are times for the favorite old customs. Buddled and joyous students find their way across campus caroling the night before Christmas vacation begins and the joyous musical alarms unnumbered people of juniors come crawling through the halls.

REMODEL SETON RESIDENCE HALL

No longer is Seton to be 'the other dorm.' Since its recent remodeling it is now like Marillac, a comfortable, modern dormitory.

Rooms throughout Seton have been painted in soft pastel hues with tile in matching colors installed around the sinks. Halls have been given acoustic ceilings. Furniture throughout the building has been completely repaired and refurnished.

A second laundry room has been added on the ground floor of Seton and the Marillac laundry room has been enlarged.

Other Changes

Additional rooms for sophomores have been obtained in Burlando. Another wing of the Central House, Saint Joseph's Hall has been added to the existing facilities there.

All juniors and seniors will reside in Marillac. Sophomores will live in Burlando and Seton and all freshmen will be housed in the residence Seton.

A large number of mailboxes has been added to the existing ones in the College post office to take care of increased enrollment.

AQUACADE

Under the direction of Miss Geraldine A. Mulson, director of physical education, St. Joseph's swimmers each year present a water pageant in the college pool.

A musical aquacade, the production of which includes script, costumes, and sets, is a student created.

The pageant features a song, a skit, a water ballet, and a musical aquacade. The water ballet numbers

Miss Barbara Holtz Gettysburg who matriculated as a freshman at St. Joseph College last week.

ACCRE-DITATION

St. Joseph College is a member of the National Association of Colleges and Universities of the Middle States Association of Colleges and Universities. It is a member of the American Medical Association and is a member of the American Association of Colleges and Universities. It is a member of the National League of Nursing.

SPORTS FOR ALL, ALL YEAR ROUND IN SJC PROGRAM

No matter what one's taste in sports may be, some activity at Saint Joseph College is bound to fit the need. From September until June, sports enthusiasts cavort on court or field, in gym or pool.

Freshmen and sophomores attend scheduled classes in a variety of sports, while the entire student body participates in a multitude of extra-curricular activities.

Students may choose the physical education class for each scholastic quarter which best satisfies their needs and desires. Hockey, swimming, fencing, basketball, volleyball, badminton, softball, posture, figure, carriage, bowling, archery, tennis and golf take their places around the seasons.

Extra-curricular activities center around the Mother Seton Trophy, awarded to the class earning the highest number of points in interclass competition. Teams compete in hockey, basketball, volleyball, and softball tournaments. Individual students test their skills in badminton, tennis, and ping pong tournaments, while classes vie for laurels at the annual swimming meet.

Intercollegiate competition is brought to Saint Joseph campus in games against several colleges in the vicinity. Varsity members are based upon ability, and girls from any class may try out for a team. Maintenance of a satisfactory scholastic average is the only stipulation for remaining on a team.

Aqua-minded SJCiennes look forward to the Water Pageant. Hard work and long hours of practice precede this production, a colorful water ballet in Verdier pool.

Many students participate in the swimming league which operates on Saturday afternoons throughout the winter. Mountaineers and SJCiennes vie for the championship. A banquet and awards for the victors marks the seasons end.

Throughout the year students are free to use most of the athletic equipment whenever they wish. No lists need be signed, no permissions obtained. If any equipment is broken students take it upon themselves to report it to Miss Geraldine A. Mulson, B.S., athletic director of the College.

SJC TRADITION DATES BACK TO MOTHER SETON

As long as there have been ivy covered buildings enshrouded with a unifying love and loyalty, there have been college traditions. Notre Dame rallies around the fighting Irish. Georgetown boosts the "Hoya, Hoya, Saxa," and anyone from Massachusetts will sing "For Boston, for Boston" at the drop of a hat. St. Joseph, too, from the first foot of the "A" to Our Lady of the Fields embedded in the woods, is steeped in enriching and well-loved traditions.

Perhaps the underlying spirit bespeoken by the Alma Mater, "All Together," best exemplifies SJC campus traditions. In 1899 Mother Seton's small colony of sisters started "all togetherness" and it still prevails through the days of 1955. In September when freshmen arrive on the "A" a white-winged Sister will embrace them fondly and before they know it they are a very important part of the SJC family and part of "All Together."

Our Sisters — how much of their community tradition SJCiennes absorb! Their charity, especially demonstrated by love of the poor, becomes a part of each student's life after commencement has passed and faded into memories. They are our teachers, our guardians and models for these young college days. They help us to grow mentally, emotionally, physically and most of all spiritually.

Valley Welcome
Freshmen shall have an official welcome to our Valley. Just when they are settled in that complex but not unsolvable schedule a night will come that is all theirs. The school turns out in a body to welcome the youngest member of the college, the Freshman class. This September, each member of the class of '59 will receive a rose from her junior big sister and fittingly enough four years later shall return the full-blown rose to the true spirit of our Valley — our Blessed Mother. In a candlelight ceremony around Virgo Potens the graduates raise their voices in thanksgiving and farewell in one of the most treasured of commencement ceremonies, the Marial Soiree.

When the campus gets dressed up in autumn finery, Valley Home Weekend arrives and students play hostess to their parents. The weekend includes the traditional Academic Investiture at which time the freshmen receive their academic caps in an impressive chapel ceremony.

Dr. Louis Clark Does Original Work At SJC

In addition to his regular teaching load in the chemistry department at St. Joseph College, Dr. Louis Clark last year carried on original experimental work on the speed of chemical reactions at various temperatures in a specially constructed constant temperature bath which was in continuous operation in the chemistry lab.

Dr. Clark's investigation was a study of the decomposition of trichloroacetic acid alone and in glycerol. It was reported in the May issue of the Journal of the American Chemical Society.

Dr. Clark began his teaching at St. Joseph last year. He received his doctorate from Kansas State College and had formerly taught at Panhandle A and M College, Goodwell, Okla.

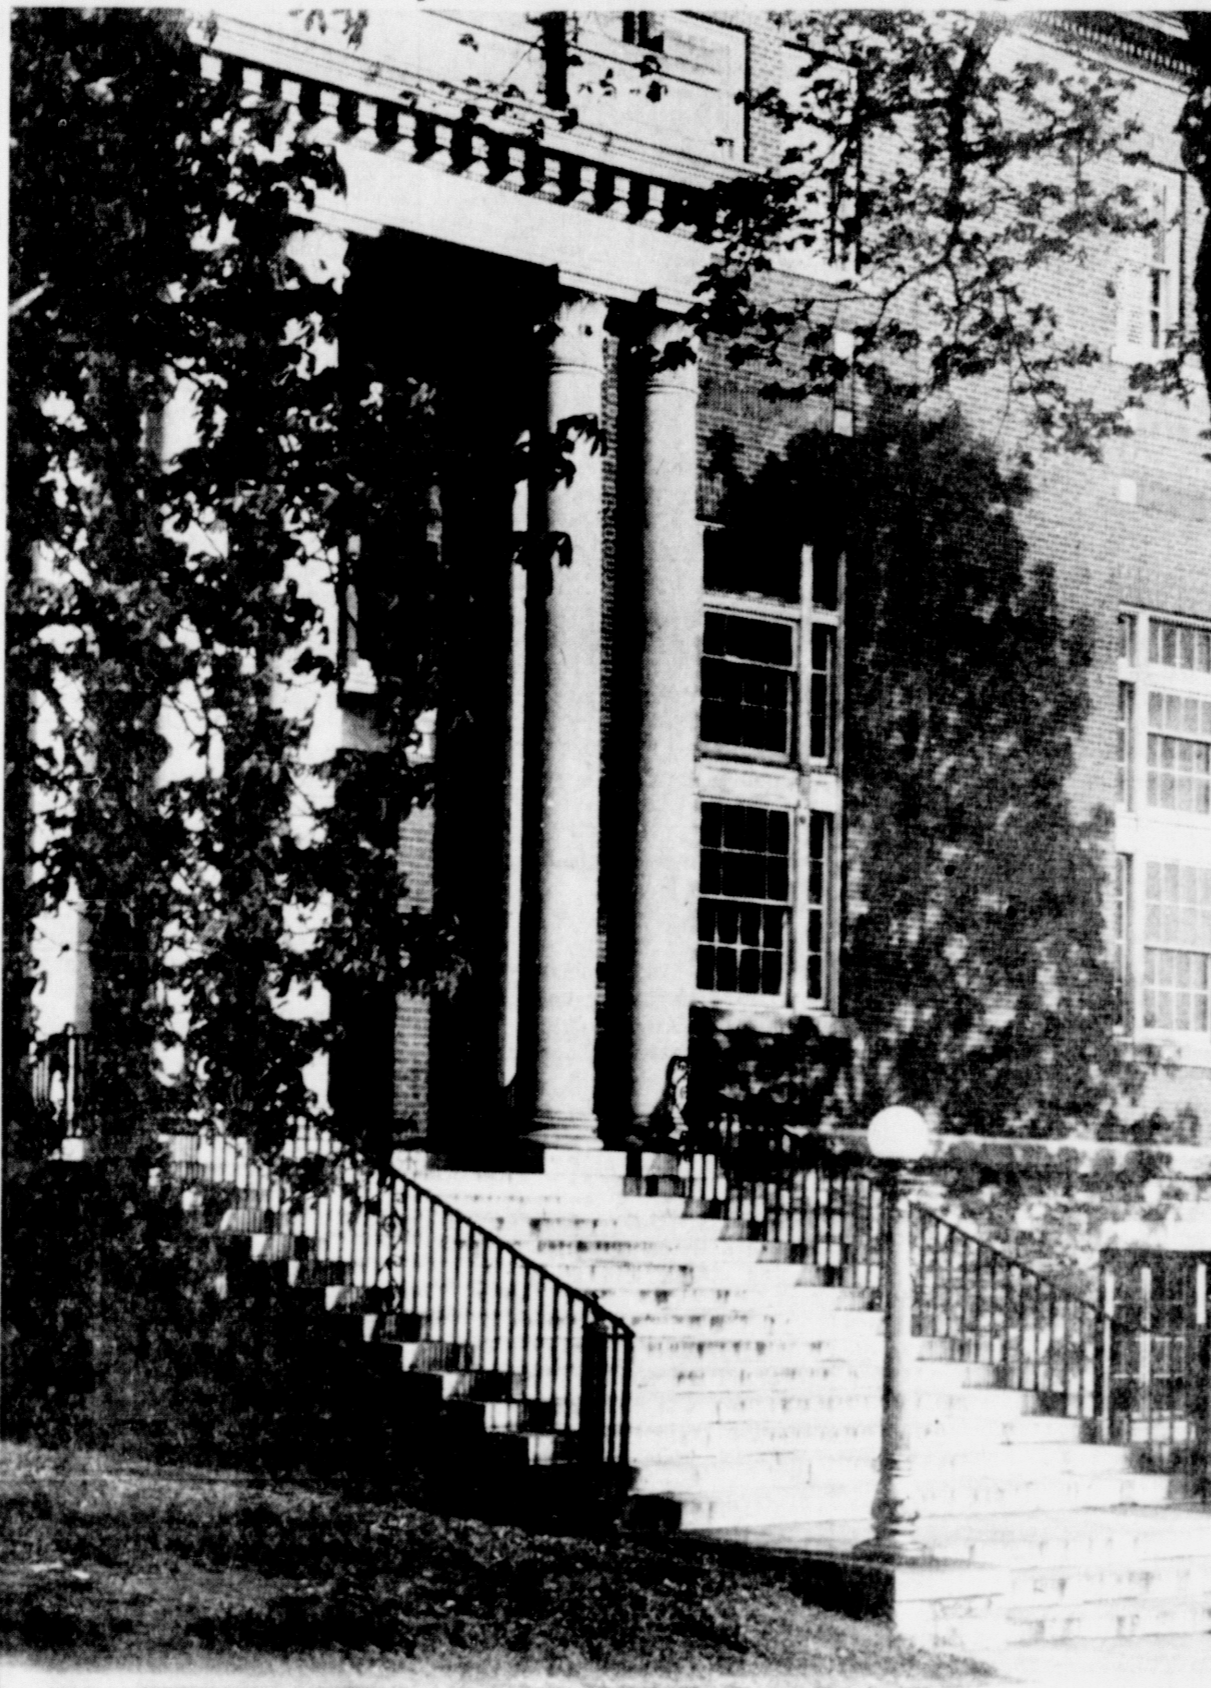

el ceremony. After the tea at the Log Cabin on Tom's Creek, Dad gets a chance to trip the light fantastic with his daughter at the dance given in the parents' honor. Mass and brunch fill Sunday morning and then there is another capping, only this time it's the sophomore nurses who receive the insignia of their profession.

March 19 rolls around in the middle of Lent and the Mount descends to share in the celebrations honoring our patron, St. Joseph, on his feast day. The Solemn High Mass and Vespers, sung by the seminarians, is a long and cherished tradition originating back in Mother Seton's time. It is not too surprising to find it flourishing a hundred forty-six years later and still one of the year's best occasions.

Freshman Class Day
Freshman class day will be highlighted with tree planting, a young sapling planted as a lasting remembrance of youthful spirits and hearts. The blazer ceremony is a long awaited event of sophomore year. The fresh white blazer embellished with the college emblem bespeaks college recognition of SJCiennes as worthy to wear its seal. Hands, and especially those fourth fingers, are the center of attraction on Junior Class Day. The college president places the college ring with all its deep meaning and significance on each junior's finger. The final class day comes with a touch of sadness and nostalgia. Four years of nurturing have passed and now the departing seniors leave their token of love to their Alma Mater on their last class day.

St. Joseph's Verdier Building

Verdier Building on the eastern boundary of St. Joseph College houses the chemistry and physics laboratory, the gymnasium and swimming pool, the nursing division and several science lecture rooms.

Annual Fashion Show Staged By Home Ecs

Highlight of the spring season at St. Joseph's is the annual fashion show and tea produced by the members of the Home Economics department under the direction of Miss Anna Marion Cherrington, instructor in home economics.

Students in the Home Ec Department serve as models, while Miss Cherrington does the narration. All garments modeled are projects of clothing students in the Home Ec Department. Usually the fashion show includes date and dance dresses, tailored garments, separates, and complete ensembles.

luncheon, class prophecy and will, and the perfect close of a perfect day — a candlelight serenade to the seniors.

The intimacy of the White House chapel appropriately lends itself to the Senior Novena of Thanksgiving offered for four fruitful years in this most blessed of valleys.

Honors Convocation
The evening before commencement, Honors Convocation is held in Seton Gardens where parents and friends have the opportunity to share in the honors and achievements of the graduates. The peak of the program is the awarding of the Carrell Medal to the member of the senior class chosen as an exemplar of all St. Joseph's desires of her students, and in recognition of scholastic, moral, and social achievement.

Holidays are times for the favorite old customs. Bundled and jovous students wind their way across campus carolling the night before Christmas vacation begins and the following morning, alarms unneeded, sleepy-eyed juniors come carolling through the halls.

REMODEL SETON RESIDENCE HALL

No longer is Seton to be "the other dorm." Since its recent remodeling, it is now like Marillac, a comfortable, modern dormitory.

Rooms throughout Seton have been painted in soft, pastel hues with tile in matching colors installed around the sinks. Halls have been given acoustic ceilings. Furniture throughout the building has been completely repaired and refinished.

A second laundry room has been added on the ground floor of Seton, and the Marillac laundry room has been enlarged.

Other Changes
Additional rooms for sophomores have been obtained in Burlando. Another wing of the Central House, Saint Joseph's Hall, has been added to the existing facilities there.

All juniors and seniors will reside in Marillac. Sophomores will live in Burlando and Seton, and all freshmen will be housed in the residence Seton.

A large number of mailboxes has been added to the existing ones in the College post office to take care of increased enrollment.

AQUACADE
Under the direction of Miss Geraldine A. Mulson, director of physical education, St. Joseph swimmers each year present a water pageant in the college pool. A musical aquacade, the production, which includes script, costumes, and settings, is student created.

The pageant features group swimming, but variety and individual swimming skill are provided by duet water ballet numbers.

SPORTS FOR ALL, ALL YEAR ROUND IN SJC PROGRAM

No matter what one's taste in sports may be, some activity at Saint Joseph College is bound to fit the need. From September until June, sports enthusiasts cavort on court or field, in gym or pool.

Freshmen and sophomores attend scheduled classes in a variety of sports, while the entire student body participates in a multitude of extra-curricular activities. Students may choose the physical education class for each scholastic quarter which best satisfies their needs and desires. Hockey, swimming, fencing, basketball, volleyball, badminton, softball, posture, figure, carriage, bowling, archery, tennis and golf take their places around the seasons.

Extra-curricular activities center around the Mother Seton Trophy, awarded to the class earning the highest number of points in inter-class competition. Teams compete in hockey, basketball, volleyball, and softball tournaments. Individual students test their skills in badminton, tennis, and ping pong tournaments, while classes vie for laurels at the annual swimming meet.

Intercollegiate competition is brought to Saint Joseph campus by the varsity basketball team with games against several colleges in the vicinity. Varsity membership is based upon ability, and girls from any class may try out for a team. Maintenance of a satisfactory scholastic average is the only stipulation for remaining on a team.

Aqua-minded SJCiennes look forward to the Water Pageant. Hard work and long hours of practice precede this production, a colorful water ballet in Verdier pool.

Many students participate in the bowling league which operates on Saturday afternoons throughout the winter. Mountaineers and SJCiennes vie for the championship. A banquet and awards for the victors marks the season's end.

Throughout the year students are free to use most of the athletic equipment whenever they wish. No lists need be signed; no permissions obtained. If any equipment is broken students take it upon themselves to report it to Miss Geraldine A. Mulson, B.S., athletic director of the College.

Guidance Department Offers New Booklet

Under the direction of the Rev. Dr. Joseph B. Tremonti, head of the guidance department, freshman booklet "How To Succeed In College" will be distributed to all incoming students.

By means of the new handbook Fr. Tremonti hopes to enable students to adjust more easily and quickly to college life by avoiding difficulties at the outset. The handbook covers such topics as the causes of and remedies for academic failure, how to study, how to budget time, preparation of schedules, note-taking, outlining, reviewing, improvement of reading ability, preparation for exams.

GAVE UP MEDALS

In 1881 when Mount St. Mary's College was hard pressed financially as a result of debts contracted during the aftermath of the Civil War, the students of Fordham and Manhattan College in New York City surrendered their usual class medals, donating the cost to Mount St. Mary's. The New York Catholic Review commented as follows: "No gold medal that either Manhattan or Fordham has yet given to worthy students will be more honorable than those bits of paper, or gives better promise for our Catholic future." The bits of paper were certificates received in lieu of prizes.

Miss Barbara Holtz, Gettysburg, who matriculated as a freshman at St. Joseph College last week.

ACCREDITATION

St. Joseph College is accredited by the Maryland State Board of Education and the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. It is affiliated with the Catholic University of America, and its nursing program is recognized by the American Medical Association and approved by the Maryland State Board of Examiners of Nurses and the National League of Nursing.

CAMPUS GROUPS OFFER OUTLETS TO EVERY TASTE

Fourteen campus organizations exist on the campus at St. Joseph College to further companionship and mutual accomplishment of the student body.

All campus clubs have been integrated under the foremost organization at SJC, the CHILDREN OF MARY. As the head and the heart of campus activity, this club demands only love of the Mother of God and a desire to imitate her virtues as requirements for membership. New students wear the green ribbon of aspirants, and then, as the year progresses, the blue ribbon will replace the green as the mark of a full-fledged Child of Mary.

The COOPERATIVE GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION, of which every student is a member, has based its honor code upon the College motto, VINCI QUI SE VINCIT. You, therefore, will have the two-fold responsibility of conquest of self and the upholding of the high standards of Saint Joseph College.

Dramatic Group
If student interest lies in grease-paint and footlights, the MELPOTHELIANS, offers dramatic activity. A one-act play contest and fall and spring major productions provide the magic combination of work and fun for everyone.

The GLEE CLUB has a place for aspiring songsters. Christmas carolling, the annual spring concert, impromptu serenades are part of the Glee Club's activity which entertains as it enjoys a good time for itself.

Every student is a member of the VALLEY ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION, and every class claims participation and spirit in the annual competition for the Mother Seton Trophy. Nine sports activities — ranging from tennis to bowling, from swimming to ping pong — are sponsored by this association.

Student Publications
ALLEGRA, the happy girl, the true SJienne, is the ideal behind the yearbook of this name. Published by the members of the graduating class.

VALLEY ECHO, resounding the news of the campus, is published monthly by the students of the journalism department. Reporters and photographers haunt the halls seeking bits of information that will attract the attention of the readers.

The newest campus organization is the LITURGY CLUB, which celebrates its second birthday this fall. By learning, through various club activities, to adapt the liturgy of the church to daily home life.

Gettysburg Editor Friend Of Setons

Catherine Josephine Seton was the only one of Mother Seton's five children present when her mother died at St. Joseph's, January 4, 1821. Anna and Rebecca had died shortly after coming to Emmitsburg and the boys, William and Richard, were not at home.

Kitty, who was not quite 21 that winter, went to live at the home of General Robert Goodloe Harper, Carroll Manor, Md., a close friend of the Setons for many years. Their daughter, Mary, who had been a student at St. Joseph's, had died, and the Harpers felt that Kitty could help replace their loss.

General Harper was editor of the "Adams Centinel" in the early 19th century, having inherited the weekly paper from his father, Robert Harper.

members help prepare themselves for Christian motherhood.

Hono. Society
To join PI DELTA PHI, the National French Honor Society, students must show command of the French language. However, on the annual French Day sponsored by the club, everyone's French is acceptable. SJC's Omega Chapter also conducts a nationwide contest, yearly to promote an interest in and an understanding of the French nation.

NPCCS sounds forbidding to a newcomer, but it is this NATIONAL FEDERATION OF CATHOLIC COLLEGE STUDENTS which keeps Saint Joseph's in close contact with other Catholic colleges and universities throughout the United States.

Current events of world-wide importance are the basic interest of the INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS CLUB. Vivid debates, guest lecturers, and panel discussions are the means used by members to give vitality to this organization.

Other Organizations
BLESSED CLET MISSION UNIT beckons mission-minded SJiennes. Knowledge, love and sacrifice are the main requirements for membership. Annually the Queen of Hearts Contest is sponsored by this unit of the CSMC for the benefit of the missions.

The HOME ECONOMICS CLUB offers a variety of activities to those whose interests lie in this field. The annual Christmas party for children of the neighborhood is a major project of this club.

With emphasis on social service the MARILLAC ASSOCIATION OF CATHOLIC ACTION attracts those who enjoy making others happy.

Known by students as the MACA, this Catholic Action club strives to aid the aged, the infirm, and the lonely by visits, food baskets, and cheery mail.

Msgr. John L. Sheridan, LL.D. Begins 18th Year As President Of Mount St. Mary's College

With the 1955 fall term the Right Rev. Monsignor John L. Sheridan, LL.D., president of Mount St. Mary's College begins his 18th year as head of the second oldest Catholic college in the United States. Of his 61 years, 44 have been spent at Mount St. Mary's as student, seminarian, teacher and president.

Born in Troy, N. Y., Msgr. Sheridan first came to the Mount as a prep student in 1911. On graduation in 1913, he entered the college, pursuing the liberal arts course and receiving his B.A. degree in 1917. Four years of seminary followed, climaxed by the reception of his M.A. degree in 1919 and his ordination in the Albany Cathedral by Bishop Edmund Gibbons in 1921.

After ordination Msgr. Sheridan returned to the Mount at the invitation of the College Council as prefect of discipline. In 1925 he was named vice president of the college and between 1930 and 1934 served also as dean of studies. On the death of Msgr. Bernard J. Bradley in 1936, Msgr. Sheridan was appointed acting president by the Council until a formal election could be held.

Elected President
In June, 1937, Msgr. Sheridan was elected president of the college for the first of six consecutive terms, the third longest tenure in the history of the college. Only the famed Fr. John McCaffrey, the iron disciplinarian of Mountain history who thrice refused episcopal honors, and Msgr. Bradley, his immediate predecessor, had longer presidencies. Fr. McCaffrey ruled the Mount from 1838 until 1872 during which time he gained the name of the "bishop maker." Msgr. Bradley presided from 1911 until 1936.

Monsignor Sheridan's accession to the presidency marked the first public inauguration, October 15, 1937, in the long history of the college. Scores of illustrious Mountaineer laymen paid him homage at Emmitsburg, as did many members of the hierarchy and representatives of over 100 sister colleges throughout the United States.

In 1938 Msgr. Sheridan was raised to the rank of domestic prelate with the title of Right Reverend Monsignor and the following year was honored by Georgetown University, the oldest Catholic college in the United States, with the conferral of an honorary LL.D. degree.

Few college presidents are so well-rounded in every phase of student activity and so thoroughly conversant with their problems as Monsignor Sheridan. In undergraduate days he was one of the student leaders at Mount St. Mary's who was busily engaged in all its extracurricular affairs. An outstanding athlete, he won four varsity letters in both basketball and football and captained both teams during 1916-17, an unprecedented honor. In addition he was an unanimous All-Maryland choice at halfback and is an All-Time Mountaineer choice also.

Well Rounded Background
When he returned to the campus as prefect and professor of history, Monsignor Sheridan continued his interest in athletics and served as moderator of the athletic association. He served also, later, as coach of the varsity basketball team, and under his direction the cage squad posted the finest record in Mountaineer history winning 21 games and losing three. Firmly believing that in a small men's college such as Mount St. Mary's, the educational program should be bent toward successfully training the whole man, Monsignor Sheridan feels that this end can be achieved only if the program looks to the spiritual, intellectual, and physical growth of the individual. During the 18 years of his administration all his effort have been devoted to the fulfillment of this ideal.

FIRST DELEGATE
On April 21, 1893, the Most Rev. Archbishop Satolli, first Apostolic Delegate to the U.S. visited the College, arriving in a special train from Baltimore and being drawn in a barouche by 6 black steeds from Emmitsburg.

Sister Rosemary, dean of St. Joseph College discusses course changes with L. to R. Theresa Rybikowsky, Rose M. Kelly and Veronica Merrill.

Father James G. Burke Begins 50th Teaching Year At MSM

The present fall term musters in Fr. James G. Burke's fiftieth year as a professor at Mount St. Mary's College. Born February 12, 1876, in Ballyheligue, County Kerry, Eire, he had his elementary education in the National School, Enniscrone, County Sligo, from 1882 to 1892, and then entered the preparatory seminary at Ballina, County Mayo, where he studied from 1892 until 1894. From 1894 to 1899, Fr. Burke attended Munster College, Limerick, where he was a classmate of the late Archbishop Curley of Baltimore.

In 1899 Fr. Burke entered Mount St. Mary's. Although classified as a seminarian he completed some courses required in American seminaries which had been unavailable in Ireland, receiving his A.B. in 1901 and his A.M. in 1903. He was ordained to the priesthood June 14, 1905.

Fr. Burke began his teaching career at the Mount even before ordination, handling classes in math and Latin as a seminarian. As a seminarian also he had served both as a prefect on the junior side and then as head prefect in the seminary. In 1905 on the occasion of the visit of the Apostolic Delegate Cardinal Falconio to the college it was Fr. Burke who had the honor of addressing all in attendance at the celebration in Latin.

Interested In Sports

Always interested in sports Fr. Burke was a crackjack handball and baseball player while in the seminary. Earlier he had played football at Muncie College and some tennis. For many years after his ordination he was director of the athletic association at the Mount, and thus was in charge of the entire athletic program. Following ordination Fr. Burke was assigned to parish work until August 1906 when he returned to the college to continue his teaching. In the half century that has passed since then he has taught at various times math, Latin, Greek, French, astronomy, and fundamental theology.

In addition to his teaching duties Fr. Burke has also held numerous administrative jobs at the college. He was vice president from 1911-18 and 1922-24, and treasurer from 1915-18. During his administration as treasurer Bradley Hall, the present administration building, was constructed.

Fr. Burke has changed little in the half century. His trademarks are still the same and the awe with which the present crop of Mountaineers view him is little different from those of 50 years ago. A passerby can still catch the cries "Throw the book out the window," "The man is not born yet who can fool me," "Never, never, in a million years," and "There's no excuse except death" that have been a part of Fr. Burke's routine since 1906.

Helps Many Students

But while Fr. Burke always presents a rather gruff exterior, those who know him best constantly pay homage to his kindly generosity. No flag waver, he has been a "Johnny-on-the-spot" for more than one Mountaineer pinched for funds. How much playing banker has cost him over the years is difficult to imagine, but Fr. Burke quietly continues his charity. Last year, for example, he discovered that one of his students needed unusual medical treatment. Fr. Burke picked up the tab. It put quite a dent in the vacation money he'd laid aside for his jubilee trip to Ireland, but Fr. Burke figured the money was well spent.

There are countless people in the neighborhood who have also been the recipients of his charity. And the comfortable pads on the kneelers both in the College Chapel and the Sisters' Chapel are other examples of his generosity. So too is the altar in the sacristy dedicated to St. Catherine in honor of his mother.

Through the years Fr. Burke has always had a reputation for toughness. But there has, strangely enough, never been a breath of criticism of his fairness. And his is always one of the toughest tasks on campus — that of drilling the poorly prepared. Sometimes you see fledgling Mountaineers come out of room 117, pale and fearful, muttering to themselves after a particularly rough session at the board. But the same youngster will tell you "If the stuff can be driven into my thick head, Fr. Burke will get it there." A teacher doesn't get higher praise than that. And Fr. Burke has been hearing it for 50 years.

MOUNT SENIORS RESIDE IN NEW PANGBORN HALL

Seniors at Mount St. Mary's College have been housed in spanking new Pangborn Hall, completed just prior to the opening of school. The $400,000 residence hall is the gift of Thomas W. and John C. Pangborn, Hagerstown, Md. industrialists, through the Pangborn foundation.

The newest landmark on the Mountaineer campus was begun last summer with Dee Construction Company, Baltimore, the contractors.

Constructed of native mountain stone and trimmed in limestone, the three story building contains 60 rooms and handles 120 students. In addition each floor contains a suite consisting of study, bedroom, and bath for priests who serve as prefects for the seniors.

Rooms are finished with asphalt tile floors, each in different colors, as is the wall paint, to give greater individuality to living quarters. The corridors have acoustical tile ceilings to retard sound. Washrooms are done with terrazzo floors and glazed tile walls.

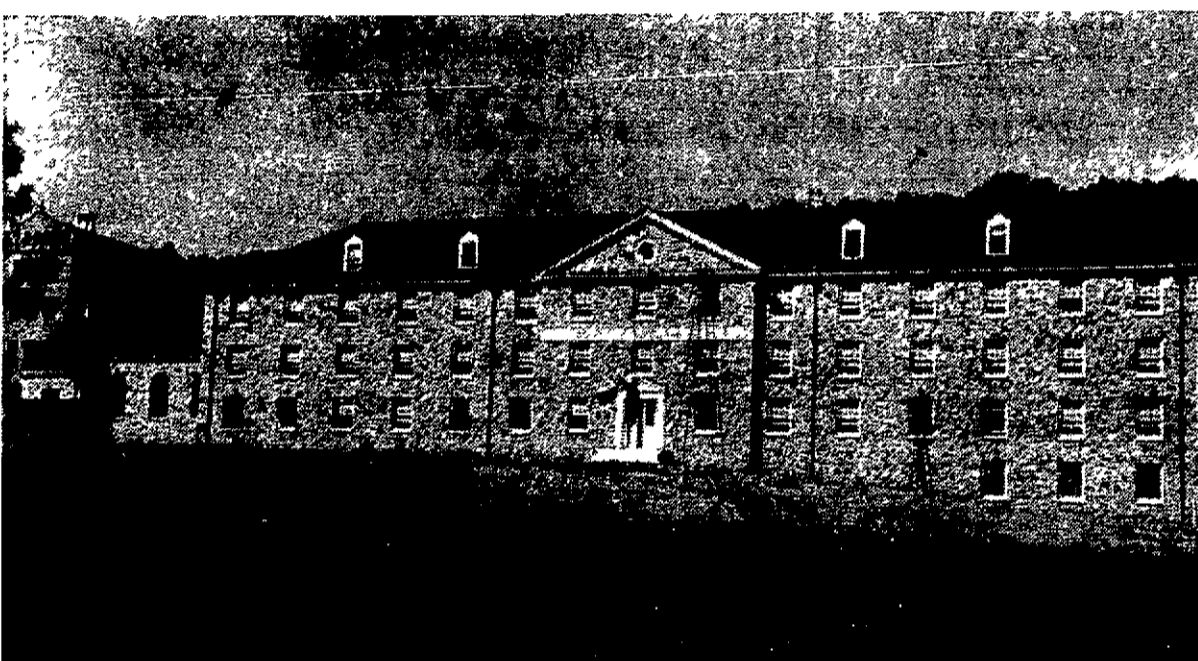

The first floor of the new residence hall contains a chapel accommodating 84 students. The chapel has rubber tile floor, wooden wainscoting, and an acoustical tile ceiling.

Unfinished as yet are the attic recreation rooms which will be furnished with facilities for table tennis, cards, and other games, and the basement lounge and reading room.

Formal Dedication

The overall size of the building is 216 feet in length and 42 feet in width. Pangborn Hall is situated at the northern side of the campus to the left of the administration building and faces Route 15.

Formal dedication ceremonies will be held in October during Homecoming Week. The new chapel will also be consecrated at that time.

Both Pangborn brothers have received honorary LL.D.'s from Mount St. Mary's. Thomas in 1945 on the occasion of his address to the graduates and John in 1954. Thomas W. Pangborn is also a member of the Lay Advisory Board of the college.

Pangborn Hall is the second structure to be raised on the Mount St. Mary's campus under the presidency of Monsignor John L. Sheridan, the first being the Memorial Gymnasium which was completed in 1951.

The best rabbit metals for bearings are 80 to 90 per cent tin.

3 NEW TEACHERS ARE APPOINTED TO MOUNT STAFF

Three new members have been added to the faculty at Mount St. Mary's College Emmitsburg, Md., according to an announcement by Rev. F. P. Kearney, dean of studies. Ralph P. Joly has been named an instructor in philosophy. Harry Prongas an instructor in economics, and Thomas Howard, an instructor in English.

Father James G. Burke Begins 50th Teaching Year At MSM

The present fall term musters in Fr. James G. Burke's fiftieth year as a professor at Mount St. Mary's College. Born February 12, 1876, in Ballyheigue, County Kerry, Eire, he had his elementary education in the National School, Ennis, County Sligo, from 1882 to 1892, and then entered the preparatory seminary at Ballina, County Mayo, where he studied from 1892 until 1894. From 1894 to 1899, Fr. Burke attended Mungret College, Limerick, where he was a classmate of the late Archbishop Curley of Baltimore.

In 1899 Fr. Burke entered Mount St. Mary's. Although classified as a seminarian he completed some courses required in American seminaries which had been unavailable in Ireland, receiving his A.B. in 1901 and his A.M. in 1903. He was ordained to the priesthood June 14, 1905.

Fr. Burke began his teaching career at the Mount even before ordination, handling classes in math and Latin as a seminarian. As a seminarian also he had served both as a prefect on the junior side and then as head prefect in the seminary. In 1905 on the occasion of the visit of the Apostolic Delegate Cardinal Falconio to the college it was Fr. Burke who had the honor of addressing all in attendance at the celebration in Latin.

Interested In Sports

Always interested in sports Fr. Burke was a crackjack baseball and basketball player while in the seminary. Earlier he had played football at Mungret College and some tennis. For many years after his ordination he was director of the athletic association at the Mount, and thus was in charge of the entire athletic program. Following ordination Fr. Burke was assigned to parish work until August 1906 when he returned to the college to continue his teaching. In the half century that has passed since then he has taught at various times math, Latin, Greek, French, astronomy, and fundamental theology.

In addition to his teaching duties Fr. Burke has also held numerous administrative jobs at the college. He was vice president from 1911-18 and 1922-24, and treasurer from 1915-18. During his administration as treasurer Bradley Hall, the present administration building, was constructed.

Fr. Burke has changed little in the half century. His trademarks are still the same and the awe with which the present crop of Mountaineers view him is little different from those of 50 years ago. A passerby can still catch the cries "Throw the book out the window," "The man is not born yet who can fool me," "Never, never, in a million years," and "There's no excuse except death" that have been a part of Fr. Burke's routine since 1906.

Helps Many Students

But while Fr. Burke always presents a rather gruff exterior, those who know him best constantly pay homage to his kindly generosity. No flag waver, he has been a "Johnny-on-the-spot" for more than one Mountaineer pinched for funds. How much playing banker has cost him over the years is difficult to imagine, but Fr. Burke quietly continues his charity. Last year, for example, he discovered that one of his students needed unusual medical treatment. Fr. Burke picked up the tab. It put quite a dent in the vacation money he'd laid aside for his jubilee trip to Ireland, but Fr. Burke figured the money was well spent. There are countless people in the neighborhood who have also been the recipients of his charity. And the comfortable pads on the kneelers both in the College Chapel and the Sisters' Chapel are other examples of his generosity. So too is the altar in the sacristy dedicated to St. Catherine in honor of his mother.

Through the years Fr. Burke has always had a reputation for toughness. But there has, strangely enough, never been a breath of criticism of his fairness. And his is always one of the toughest tasks on campus — that of drilling the poorly prepared. Sometimes you see fledgling Mountaineers come out of room 117, pale and fearful, muttering to themselves after a particularly rough session at the board. But the same youngster will tell you "If the stuff can be driven into my thick head, Fr. Burke will get it there." A teacher doesn't get higher praise than that. And Fr. Burke has been hearing it for 50 years.

MOUNT SENIORS RESIDE IN NEW PANGBORN HALL

Seniors at Mount St. Mary's College have been housed in spanking new Pangborn Hall, completed just prior to the opening of school. The $400,000 residence hall is the gift of Thomas W. and John C. Pangborn, Hagerstown, Md. industrialists, through the Pangborn foundation.

The newest landmark on the Mountaineer campus was begun last summer with Dee Construction Company, Baltimore, the contractors.

Constructed of native mountain stone and trimmed in limestone, the three story building contains 60 rooms and handles 120 students. In addition each floor contains a suite consisting of study, bedroom, and bath for priests who serve as prefects for the seniors.

Rooms are finished with asphalt tile floors, each in different colors, as is the wall paint, to give greater individuality to living quarters. The corridors have acoustical tile ceilings to retard sound. Washrooms are done with terrazzo floors and glazed tile walls.

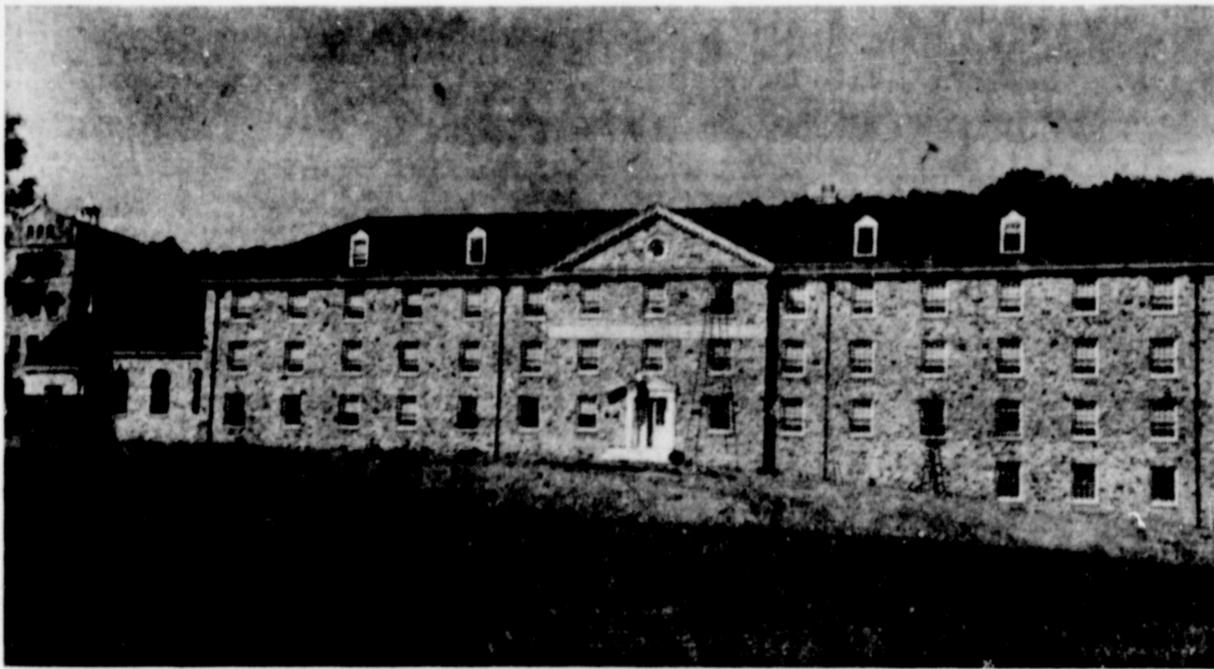

The first floor of the new residence hall contains a chapel accommodating 84 students. The chapel has rubber tile floor, wooden wainscoting, and an acoustical tile ceiling.

Unfinished as yet are the attic recreation rooms which will be furnished with facilities for table tennis, cards, and other games, and the basement lounge and reading room.

Formal Dedication

The overall size of the building is 216 feet in length and 42 feet in width. Pangborn Hall is situated at the northern side of the campus to the left of the administration building and faces Route 15.

Formal dedication ceremonies will be held in October during Homecoming Week. The new chapel will also be consecrated at that time.

Both Pangborn brothers have received honorary LL.D.'s from Mount St. Mary's. Thomas in 1945 on the occasion of his address to the graduates and John in 1954. Thomas W. Pangborn is also a member of the Lay Advisory Board of the college.

Pangborn Hall is the second structure to be raised on the Mount St. Mary's campus under the presidency of Monsignor John L. Sheridan, the first being the Memorial Gymnasium which was completed in 1951.

He has completed his course work for the Ph.D. at Catholic U. He is a veteran of two years military service having served between 1951-53 at the Army Chemical Center as an education specialist. Prior to his present assignment he taught at the College of Great Falls, Great Falls, Montana, as an instructor in philosophy from 1942-1951. For the past year he has been a teaching fel-

Msgr. John L. Sheridan, LL.D. Begins 18th Year As President Of Mount St. Mary's College

With the 1955 fall term the Right Reverend Monsignor John L. Sheridan, LL.D., president of Mount St. Mary's College, begins his 18th year as head of the second oldest Catholic college in the United States. Of his 61 years 44 have been spent at Mount St. Mary's as student, seminarian, teacher and president.

Born in Tiova, N. Y., Msgr. Sheridan first came to the Mount as a prep student in 1911. On graduation in 1913, he entered the college, pursuing the liberal arts course and receiving his B.A. degree in 1917. Four years of seminary followed, culminated by the reception of his M.A. degree in 1919 and his ordination in the Albany Cathedral by Bishop Edmund Gibbons in 1921.

After ordination Msgr. Sheridan returned to the Mount at the invitation of the College Council as prefect of discipline. In 1925 he was named vice president of the college and between 1930 and 1934 served also as dean of studies. On the death of Msgr. Bernard J. Bradley in 1936, Msgr. Sheridan was appointed acting president by the Council until a formal election could be held.

Elected President

In June, 1937 Msgr. Sheridan was elected president of the college for the first of six consecutive terms, the longest tenure in the history of the college. Only the famed Fr. John McCaffrey, the iron disciplinarian of Mountaintop who twice refused episcopal honors, and Msgr. Bradley, his immediate predecessor, had longer presidencies. Fr. McCaffrey ruled the Mount from 1838 until 1872, during which time he gained the name of the "bishop maker." Msgr. Bradley presided from 1911 until 1936.

Monsignor Sheridan's accession to the presidency marked the first public inaugural October 15, 1937, in the long history of the college. Scores of illustrious Mountaineer laymen paid him homage at Emmitsburg as did many members of the hierarchy and representatives of over 100 sister colleges throughout the United States.

In 1938 Msgr. Sheridan was raised to the rank of domestic prelate with the title of Right Reverend Monsignor and the following year was honored by Georgetown University the oldest Catholic college in the United States, with the conferral of an honorary LL.D. degree.

Few college presidents are so well-rounded in every phase of student activity and so thoroughly conversant with their problems as Monsignor Sheridan. In undergraduate days he was one of the student leaders at Mount St. Mary's who was busily engaged in all its extracurricular affairs. An outstanding athlete he won four varsity letters in both basketball and football and captained both teams during 1916-17, an unprecedented honor. In addition he was an unanimous All-Maryland choice at halfback and is an All-Time Mountaineer choice also.

Well Rounded Background

When he returned to the campus as prefect and professor of history, Monsignor Sheridan continued his interest in athletics and served as moderator of the athletic association. He served also later as coach of the varsity basketball team and under his direction the cage squad posted the finest record in Mountaineer history winning 21 games and losing three.

Firmly believing that in a small men's college such as Mount St. Mary's the educational program should be bent toward successfully training the whole man, Monsignor Sheridan feels that this end can be achieved only if the program looks to the spiritual, intellectual and physical growth of the individual. During the 18 years of his administration all his effort have been devoted to the fulfillment of this ideal.

FIRST DELEGATE

On April 21, 1893, the Most Rev. Archbishop Sapelli, first Apostolic Delegate to the U.S. visited the College arriving in a special train from Baltimore and being drawn in a barouche by 6 black steeds from Emmitsburg.

Sister Rosemary, dean of St. Joseph College discusses course changes with L. to R. Theresa Rybikowski, Rose M. Kelly and Veronica Merrill

IKE CANDIDACY WILL HINGE ON HEALTH IN '56

By JACK BELL
DENVER (AP)—Republican strategists said today President Eisenhower's own evaluation of his health next spring may determine largely whether he runs for a second term.

The President's precedent-setting conference here over the weekend with the Republican chairmen of 48 states, the District of Columbia and Hawaii left technically unanswered the $64,000 question of whether he will run again next year.

But many of those who attended reached this conclusion:

If the President feels next spring that he can take on four more years in the White House without danger of physical incapacitation, he will be a candidate.

Republicans who talked with Eisenhower spoke of his outward physical fitness and reported his "bubbling enthusiasm" about Republican party prospects next year. They said they think the odds are heavy that he will run again.

George Kinnear, Washington state chairman, put it succinctly when he said in an interview he believes Eisenhower wants to determine for himself several months from now whether his physical stamina is such that he can withstand another four years of the kind of strain to which he has been subjected.

Keeps In Good Health
"The mere fact that he is keeping himself in tiptop shape supports the theory that he would like to run again to carry out his program," Kinnear said.

Ray Bliss, Ohio state chairman, said he thinks while Eisenhower's appraisal of his health is a major factor, he agrees with GOP strategists who think it is too early for the President to say what he intends to do in 1956.

Eisenhower wasn't of much help in his weekend conference with the state chairmen. He spoke about the philosophy of the Republican party but when he got down to the second term question he was so elusive nobody was sure just what he meant.

He said he likes the GOP "more than ever." But he said it is not and should not become—as even the most ardent party leader now concedes privately—"dependent on one man."

He said that "humans are frail—and they are mortal." For this reason, he said the party members should never "pin your flag so tightly to one mast that if a ship sinks you cannot rip it off and nail it to another."

Michigan Painter Eggs On Turkeys

ALBA, Mich. (AP)—Wilbert Taylor isn't sure whether he's an artist whose hobby is egg collecting or an egg collector whose hobby is art.

Taylor says if art doesn't make a living for him he always can put the turkeys back to work making eggs.

Lately, 44-year-old Taylor has been painting the turkeys, selling the paintings and once and a while wandering out to pick up the eggs.

Taylor says he started farming for a living and picked up his painting technique from reading a few paper-backed books on the Old Masters.

MAKE STANDING SCREEN OF PINE AND BURLAP

By VIVIAN BROWN

A standing screen can serve many useful purposes in the household. It can be pushed hastily around the laundry basket. It can screen baby's crib from a draft or lend privacy to a corner of a room.

One of burlap and pine designed by Elizabeth Cowan may be made for less than $10. Here's how:

You'll need a crewel work needle, long sewing needle, a paint brush, rabbit-plane right angle wood clamps. Materials include 5½ yards of gold burlap, 1 spool dark brown sewing thread, 1 spool each of red and turquoise linen weaving yarn (or other colors), 1 hank of brown cotton rope (the type used in weaving), white pine strips, glue, sandpaper, a small can of lacquer or varnish, 1 pint gold lacquer, 6 double hinges with screws, 6 metal glider feet, about 300 brass head upholstery tacks.

The Frame

Make it out of 6 white pine strips, 70 in. long and 6 pieces 20¼ in. long (2½ by 3¼ in. stock). The joints at corners are rabbeted to increase the rigidity and strength of the frame. Spread wood glue in grooves and on tongues. Join. Place glued pieces in clamps to dry. When all pieces are assembled, join three frames with double hinges. One hinge should be about 3 inches from the upper edge, one in the center and another 3 inches from the bottom. Attach glider feet, two on each panel. Sandpaper and apply one coat of varnish or lacquer. When dry paint with gold lacquer. Two coats may be required. (Or use a paint color of your choice if you prefer).

Embroidering Burlap

Cut three pieces of burlap 68 in. x 24 in. Lay out the design. The weave in burlap is so definite that it is easy to embroider a straight line by following a thread. A stripe is made by weaving up and down in a slant line. The stripes are ten threads of the burlap weave wide and the slant is ten threads long. Turquoise is pretty. Use outline stitches for narrow stripes twelve inches long, overlapping six threads from previous stitch. Red harmonizes nicely. Go all the way through the burlap with these stitches so the design appears on both sides. Conceal yarn ends under stitches. Couch the brown cotton rope on with brown sewing thread. Be careful that stitches do not go through the burlap to show on the reverse side unless the rope design is repeated on the back.

Fold raw edges of burlap toward front. Attach burlap panels to the back side of frame with upholstery tacks, allowing ½ in. overlap and 2 in. spacings. Tack upper edge first, then work down evenly on each side. Keep the same amount of tension on each side so the design remains straight.

AUTHOR-MOTHER GIVES ADVICE ON BABY CARE

By VIVIAN BROWN

Every day is Mothers Day for the working mother.

There is never enough of the baby routine to put her dreaming fondly of distant places—high seas and Mt. Everest. Every minute with her offspring is a precious jewel.

Days are spent tolerating the pessimists, those who mutter that . . . you are missing the best years (or months or days) of your baby's life . . . that nobody but mother can do the job . . . that woman belongs in the home.

Then there are the juvenile delinquency episodes which always existed, but today, of course, are blamed on the working mother.

Before the era of diaper service, automatic washers, freezers and push-button living, when the home needed commandeering by Mom, these debunkers might have had a point. But those very chores in those days kept baby from getting personal attention anyway. Perhaps he didn't get as much loving care as today's working mother gives before and after her bout with the working world.

Early to bed and early to rise keynotes the working mother's day. Parties must be reserved for week-ends when baby is tucked safely in bed.

Begins At 5:30 A.M.

My own day begins about 5:30 a.m., when Junior wakes. He is diapered, pampered and put in his play pen to watch his breakfast of milk, egg, cereal and fruit prepared.

He is cheery and lovable until that last bye-bye at 7:30.

He is waiting eagerly for us in the evening, has a small play period and gets a leisurely bath. He is put to bed and goes off to sleep happily.

A schedule and common sense are necessary to baby's regimen. He can't be pined for during the working day, nor should he share Mom with her job when she is at home. These are two separate wheels and they must work independently of each other.

A sweet beginning should have a sweet ending, so if the twig is bent carefully and surely you should have a jolly, contented youngster. Here are suggestions which might prove helpful.

1. Obtain the best pediatrician's book available. Pocketbook editions are inexpensive and may be carried in the handbag. (Dr. Benjamin Spock's "Baby and Child Care," available everywhere, has been my guiding light.) A handbook helps you interpret your pediatrician's advice.

Choose Astutely

2. Choose your baby attendant astutely. If you can have the experienced hand of a mother or mother-in-law as I have, you are fortunate indeed. If you must hire a nurse look for one (a) experienced, (b) pleasant and affectionate, and (c) patient.

3. Be gentle with your child. Voice as well as hands should be soft. Some babies can't bear high-pitched sounds and the tearing of paper, or to be squeezed and poked when diapered.

4. Plan outings for your baby on weekends. Most babies enjoy car riding. Take him to the grocery store for a ride in the market basket. Visit children and other people, so he has a change of scenery occasionally.

5. When you put him to bed, make it a definite thing. Sing to him beforehand and on the way to the crib, but once he's in his bed, put the light out and disappear.

6. Be sure he is well fed. If he isn't, he'll let you know it and be irritable. Well-fed babies are happy.

7. Introduce him to strangers carefully. He'll object to people thrusting their heads into his playpen suddenly. But once he warms up to them he can be a charmer.

8. Be sure Daddy takes over some of the chores each day. Babies love the contrast of going from Mom's nimble fingers to Dad's strong hands. Make sure you give him the opportunity.

Tune In WGET, 1450 On Your Dial

Mary Higgins, Nationwide Insurance policyholder, writes Murray D. Lincoln, Nationwide president, about the companies' recent change of name. Mr. Lincoln's answer is printed below.

We'll always love you. Mary Higgins ...we've changed our name, not our heart

Dear Mary Higgins:

I have your nice letter, and I'm answering it through the newspaper because a number of other people have also written me, raising the same point you do about our recent name change.

You say:

"Charlie Hackett, our agent, tells me that Farm Bureau Insurance is changing its name to Nationwide Insurance. It's nice to know you're getting big and successful. But I do hope you won't forget about people like us who've stayed with you for years because we like your neighborly way of doing business."

I can understand your being concerned about losing the neighborly touch that has made Farm Bureau Insurance such a nice company to do business with.

You might look at it this way, Mary Higgins. Once upon a time you changed your name, too. That was the day you got married, remember?

But at heart you didn't change, did you? What happened was that you went into partnership with someone like yourself to build a fuller, richer life for both of you—and later on for your children.

Actually, Mary Higgins, that's just what our companies have done.

For 29 years now we've done business on the neighbor-to-neighbor basis of people helping each other. Over these years our companies have grown steadily—from a mere handful of Ohio farmers in 1926 to more than two million policyholders today in 13 states.

But during all this time there hasn't been any change in our original idea of people working together to help each other. There hasn't been any change in the personal kind of service that has made Farm Bureau different from other insurance companies.

And there won't be any change under our new name, Nationwide Insurance. You have my personal guarantee on that.

So why change our name? Well, a lot of people like our way of doing things. People in states all the way to the Pacific Coast. Especially policyholders who have moved away and want to keep their insurance with us.

Naturally, we welcome these people, because the more of us there are, the lower the cost of providing protection for us all.

But in some states outside our present 13-state operating area there are already "Farm Bureau" companies. So before we could take these people in those other states into partnership with us, we had to have a new name.

But don't you worry, Mary Higgins. We'll never disappoint you or people like you who have been with us from earlier days. Your policies will continue to guarantee you the same protection as before. Charlie Hackett will still be on hand to advise you on your insurance problems and help you if you have a claim.

The big difference is one you can be proud of. From now on you'll have a stake in a business which will be Nationwide in name, just as for years we've been nationwide in our claims service. And through your local Policyholder Advisory Committee you'll be able to have a say in the affairs of an organization that eventually will be nationwide in sales service.

Sincerely,
Murray D. Lincoln
President, Nationwide Insurance

P.S. Perhaps you have friends and neighbors who would like to join our organization. Tell them about us. Then suggest they get in touch with Charlie Hackett or any Nationwide representative. They'll find a friendly welcome awaiting them!

SHARON RITCHIE, COLORADO, WINS MISS AMERICA

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—A teenager from Colorado who refuses to get flustered and yearns to be an actress named her newly won Miss America 1956 crown today with the outlook: "If you think success, then success will come to you."

The titan-tressed coed—18-year-old Sharon Kay Ritchie—has a philosophy to help her through the exciting yearlong tour that lies ahead.

"There's no use getting fussed," says Sharon, who entered the pageant as Miss Colorado. "If you look for the best, you'll receive the best."

Sharon, who taught Sunday school in the First Christian Church at Grand Island, Neb., where she lived most of her life, went to New York City last night with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Forrest A. Ritchie.

In her first formal interview with newsmen after her Saturday night triumph over 48 other competitors, she said the crown goes to the girl who keeps cool, calm and collected.

A sophomore at Colorado Women's College, she said she had her eye on the Miss America title since she was 8.

She wants to be an actress and plans to study at the Pasadena (Calif.) Playhouse.

She is 5 feet 6, weighs 116 pounds and measures 35-23-35 at the bust, waist and hips.

SHARON RITCHIE, COLORADO, WINS MISS AMERICA

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—A teen-ager from Colorado who refuses to get flustered and yearns to be an actress donned her newly won Miss America 1956 crown today with the outlook: "If you think success, then success will come to you."

The titian-tressed coed—18-year-old Sharon Kay Ritchie—has a philosophy to help her through the exciting yearlong tour that lies ahead.

"There's no use getting fussed," says Sharon, who entered the pageant as Miss Colorado. "If you look for the best, you'll receive the best."

Sharon, who taught Sunday school in the First Christian Church at Grand Island, Neb., where she lived most of her life, went to New York City last night with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Forrest A. Ritchie.

In her first formal interview with newsmen after her Saturday night triumph over 48 other competitors, she said the crown goes to the girl who keeps cool, calm and collected.

A sophomore at Colorado Women's College, she said she had her eye on the Miss America title since she was 8.

She wants to be an actress and plans to study at the Pasadena (Calif.) Playhouse.

She is 5 feet 6, weighs 116 pounds and measures 35-23-35 at the bust, waist and hips.

Sharon, in gaining the crown from her Miss America predecessor, Lee Ann Meriwether of San Francisco, is in line for $50,000 in prizes and personal appearance fees.

She says she has no romantic entanglements.

IKE CANDIDACY WILL HINGE ON HEALTH IN '56

By JACK BELL
DENVER (AP)—Republican strategists said today President Eisenhower's own evaluation of his health next spring may determine largely whether he runs for a second term.

The President's precedent-setting conference here over the weekend with the Republican chairmen of 48 states, the District of Columbia and Hawaii left technically unanswered the $84,000 question of whether he will run again next year.

But many of those who attended reached this conclusion:

If the President feels next spring that he can take on four more years in the White House without danger of physical incapacitation, he will be a candidate.

Republicans who talked with Eisenhower spoke of his outward physical fitness and reported his "bubbling enthusiasm" about Republican party prospects next year. They said they think the odds are heavy that he will run again.

George Kinnear, Washington state chairman, put it succinctly when he said in an interview he believes Eisenhower wants to determine for himself several months from now whether his physical stamina is such that he can withstand another four years of the kind of strain to which he has been subjected.

Keeps In Good Health
"The mere fact that he is keeping himself in tiptop shape supports the theory that he would like to run again to carry out his program," Kinnear said.

Ray Bliss, Ohio state chairman, said he thinks while Eisenhower's appraisal of his health is a major factor, he agrees with GOP strategists who think it is too early for the President to say what he intends to do in 1956.

Eisenhower wasn't of much help in his weekend conference with the state chairmen. He spoke about the philosophy of the Republican party but when he got down to the second term question he was so elusive nobody was sure just what he meant.

He said he likes the GOP "more than ever." But he said it is not and should not become—as even the most ardent party leader now concedes privately—"dependent on one man."

He said that "humans are frail—and they are mortal." For this reason, he said the party members should never "pin your flag so tightly to one mast that if a ship sinks you cannot rip it off and sail it to another."

Michigan Painter Eggs On Turkeys

ALBA, Mich. (AP)—Wilbert Taylor isn't sure whether he's an artist whose hobby is egg collecting or an egg collector whose hobby is art.

Taylor says if art doesn't make a living for him he always can put the turkeys back to work making eggs.

Lately, 44-year-old Taylor has been painting the turkeys, selling the paintings and once and a while wandering out to pick up the eggs.

Taylor says he started farming for a living and picked up his painting technique from reading a few paper-backed books on the Old Masters.

MAKE STANDING SCREEN OF PINE AND BURLAP

By VIVIAN BROWN
A standing screen can serve many useful purposes in the household. It can be pushed hastily around the laundry basket. It can screen baby's crib from a draft or lend privacy to a corner of a room.

One of burlap and pine designed by Elizabeth Cowan may be made for less than $10. Here's how:

You'll need a crewel work needle, long sewing needle, a paint brush, rabbit-plane right angle wood clamps. Materials include 5½ yards of gold burlap, 1 spool dark brown sewing thread 1 spool each of red and turquoise linen weaving yarn (or other colors), 1 hank of brown cotton rope (the type used in weaving), white pine strips, glue, sandpaper, a small can of lacquer or varnish, 1 pint gold lacquer, 6 double hinges with screws, 6 metal glider feet, about 300 brass head upholstery tacks.

The Frame
Make it out of 6 white pine strips, 70 in. long and 6 pieces 20½ in. long (2½ by 3½ in. stock). The joints at corners are rabbeted to increase the rigidity and strength of the frame. Spread wood glue in grooves and on tongues. Join. Place glued pieces in clamps to dry. When all pieces are assembled join three frames with double hinges. One hinge should be about 3 inches from the upper edge, one in the center and another 3 inches from the bottom. Attach glider feet, two on each panel. Sandpaper and apply one coat of varnish or lacquer. When dry paint with gold lacquer. Two coats may be required. (Or use a paint color of your choice if you prefer).

Embroidering Burlap
Cut three pieces of burlap 68 in. x 24 in. Lay out the design. The weave in burlap is so definite that it is easy to embroider a straight line by following a thread. A stripe is made by weaving up and down in a slant line. The stripes are ten threads of the burlap weave wide and the slant is ten threads long. Turquoise is pretty. Use outline stitches for narrow stripes twelve inches long, overlapping six threads from previous stitch. Red harmonizes nicely. Go all the way through the burlap with these stitches so the design appears on both sides. Conceal yarn ends under stitches. Couch the brown cotton rope on with brown sewing thread. Be careful that stitches do not go through the burlap to show on the reverse side unless the rope design is repeated on the back.

Fold raw edges of burlap toward front. Attach burlap panels to the back side of frame with upholstery tacks, allowing ½ in. overlap and 2 in. spacings. Tack upper edge first, then work down evenly on each side. Keep the same amount of tension on each side so the design remains straight.

AUTHOR-MOTHER GIVES ADVICE ON BABY CARE

By VIVIAN BROWN
Every day is Mothers Day for the working mother.

There is never enough of the baby routine to put her dreaming fondly of distant places—high seas and Mt. Everest. Every minute with her offspring is a precious jewel.

Days are spent tolerating the pessimists, those who mutter that . . . you are missing the best years (or months or days) of your baby's life . . . that nobody but mother can do the job . . . that woman belongs in the home.

Then there are the juvenile delinquency episodes which always existed, but today, of course, are blamed on the working mother.

Before the era of diaper service, automatic washers, freezers and push-button living, when the home needed commandeering by Mom, these debunkers might have had a point. But those very chores in those days kept baby from getting personal attention anyway. Perhaps he didn't get as much loving care as today's working mother gives before and after her bout with the working world.

Early to bed and early to rise keynotes the working mother's day. Parties must be reserved for weekends when baby is tucked safely in bed.

Begins At 5:30 A.M.

My own day begins about 5:30 a.m., when Junior wakes. He is diapered, pumped and put in his play pen to watch his breakfast of milk, egg, cereal and fruit prepared.

He is cheery and lovable until that last bye-bye at 7:30.

He is waiting eagerly for us in the evening, has a small play period and gets a leisurely bath. He is put to bed and goes off to sleep happily.

A schedule and common sense are necessary to baby's regimen. He can't be pined for during the working day, nor should he share Mom with her job when she is at home. These are two separate wheels and they must work independently of each other.

A sweet beginning should have a sweet ending so if the twig is bent carefully and surely you should have a jolly, contented youngster. Here are suggestions which might prove helpful.

1. Obtain the best pediatrician's book available. Pocketbook editions are inexpensive and may be carried in the handbag. (Dr. Benjamin Spock's "Baby and Child Care," available everywhere, has been my guiding light.) A handbook helps you interpret your pediatrician's advice.

2. Choose your baby attendant astutely. If you can have the experienced hand of a mother or mother-in-law as I have, you are fortunate indeed. If you must hire a nurse look for one (a) experienced, (b) pleasant and affectionate, and (c) patient.

3. Be gentle with your child. Voice as well as hands should be soft. Some babies can't bear high-pitched sounds and the tearing of paper, or to be squeezed and poked when diapered.

4. Plan outings for your baby on weekends. Most babies enjoy car riding. Take him to the grocery store for a ride in the market basket. Visit children and other people, so he has a change of scenery occasionally.

5. When you put him to bed,

make it a definite thing. Sing to him beforehand and on the way to the crib, but once he's in his bed, put the light out and disappear.

6. Be sure he is well fed. If he isn't, he'll let you know it and be irritable. Well-fed babies are happy.

7. Introduce him to strangers carefully. He'll object to people thrusting their heads into his playpen suddenly. But once he warms up to them he can be a charmer.

8. Be sure Daddy takes over some of the chores each day. Babies love the contrast of going from Mom's nimble fingers to Dad's strong hands. Make sure you give him the opportunity.

Tune In WGET, 1450 On Your Dial

Mary Higgins, Nationwide Insurance policyholder, writes Murray D. Lincoln, Nationwide president, about the companies' recent change of name. Mr. Lincoln's answer is printed below.

We'll always love you. Mary Higgins ...we've changed our name, not our heart

Dear Mary Higgins:

I have your nice letter, and I'm answering it through the newspaper because a number of other people have also written me, raising the same point you do about our recent name change.

You say:

"Charlie Hackett, our agent, tells me that Farm Bureau Insurance is changing its name to Nationwide Insurance. It's nice to know you're getting big and successful. But I do hope you won't forget about people like us who've stayed with you for years because we like your neighborly way of doing business."

I can understand your being concerned about losing the neighborly touch that has made Farm Bureau Insurance such a nice company to do business with.

You might look at it this way, Mary Higgins. Once upon a time you changed your name, too. That was the day you got married, remember?

But at heart you didn't change, did you? What happened was that you went into partnership with someone like yourself to build a fuller, richer life for both of you—and later on for your children.

Actually, Mary Higgins, that's just what our companies have done.

For 29 years now we've done business on the neighbor-to-neighbor basis of people helping each other. Over these years our companies have grown steadily—from a mere handful of Ohio farmers in 1926 to more than two million policyholders today in 13 states.

But during all this time there hasn't been any change in our original idea of people working together to help each other. There hasn't been any change in the personal kind of service that has made Farm Bureau different from other insurance companies.

And there won't be any change under our new name, Nationwide Insurance. You have my personal guarantee on that.

So why change our name? Well, a lot of people like our way of doing things. People in states all the way to the Pacific Coast. Especially policyholders who have moved away and want to keep their insurance with us.

Naturally, we welcome these people, because the more of us there are, the lower the cost of providing protection for us all.

But in some states outside our present 13-state operating area there are already "Farm Bureau" companies. So before we could take these people in those other states into partnership with us, we had to have a new name.

But don't you worry, Mary Higgins. We'll never disappoint you or people like you who have been with us from earlier days. Your policies will continue to guarantee you the same protection as before. Charlie Hackett will still be on hand to advise you on your insurance problems and help you if you have a claim.

The big difference is one you can be proud of. From now on you'll have a stake in a business which will be Nationwide in name, just as for years we've been nationwide in our claims service. And through your local Policyholder Advisory Committee you'll be able to have a say in the affairs of an organization that eventually will be nationwide in sales service.

Sincerely,
Murray D. Lincoln
President, Nationwide Insurance

P.S. Perhaps you have friends and neighbors who would like to join our organization. Tell them about us. Then suggest they get in touch with Charlie Hackett or any Nationwide representative. They'll find a friendly welcome awaiting them!

Garden And Building News

Rooms	Five
Bedrooms	Two
Closets	Five
Cubage
House	18,300 ft.
Garage	7,600 ft.
Dimensions
House	46' x 38'
Overall	66' x 38'

One of the most attractive features of "The Youngsville" is its spacious front porch which measures 16' x 9' and can be glassed or screened in if desired.

From this large porch you can go directly into the living room, through the door in the left wall; and into the kitchen, through the door in the back wall. Measuring 20 x 15 feet, the living room is the largest room in "The Youngsville" and is destined to be the family's entertainment center where friends and relatives can gather.

The large built-in fireplace in the center of the left wall adds both a decorative and friendly note to the room. It will prove itself practical, too, during chilly weather when the basement heater has been shut off.

Further light and air is provided for the living room by the large window in the left wall and the equally large window in the right wall. A door in the right end of the back wall leads to a small hallway containing a large coat closet in the right wall—a closet that is ideally situated for the storage of guests' wraps and the family's stormy weather apparel. A stairway in the left wall of this hallway leads to the basement.

Another doorway, in the left end of the back wall, opens on the central hall that leads to the bath and the two bedrooms. The large all-modern bath contains a tub and a shower and is well-lighted by a window in the back wall. Opposite the door to the back bedroom, against the right wall of this hallway, is the large linen closet.

Large Closet
The larger of the two bedrooms, intended to be used as the master bedroom, measures 12' x 13'. Assured of adequate light and good cross ventilation from the window in the back wall and the other window in the left wall of the room, this bedroom has a large clothes closet in its right wall.

Also assured of cross ventilation and plenty of light from a window in the front wall and one in the right wall, the front bedroom likewise has a large clothes closet. Measuring 12 feet square, this room could easily accommodate twin beds; the long back wall could be used for the installation of bunk beds.

The extra closet, opening on the central hall, just to the left of the door to this front bedroom, will come in handy for an assortment of storage uses.

Dining Room
Measuring 10' x 9', the dining room is separated from the living room by the previously mentioned small hall. The one large window in the back wall, provides light and ventilation for the room. Place your dining room set where you can reap the advantage of the light, air and view from this window.

A door in the right wall of the dining room leads to the well planned modern kitchen—thus you won't have any extra steps to take when serving a family meal or special dinner in the dining room. Long and narrow, the kitchen is 13' x 9' in dimensions.

The sink is placed under the double windows in the back wall, the logical and best location. Working counters, complete with cabinets and cupboards, are placed on either side of the sink and the L arrangement terminates along the left wall.

Against the opposite kitchen wall are arrayed, the broom closet, refrigerator, stove and an extra working counter, in that order. A door in the right section of the back wall leads to the back porch and the back yard.

This back porch also provides protected entrance to the two-car garage. Measuring 20' x 19', this garage has double windows in the right wall and another window in the back wall.

Blueprints Available
Complete plans for this home are available; 1 set—$12.75, 2 sets—$19.35, 3 sets—$25.80. Address requests (mentioning name of home) to Home of the Week, Inc., Dept. GE, 87 Weybosset St., Providence, R. I. Send check or money order or plans will be sent C.O.D. A complete home owner's kit and contractor's kit will be included at no extra cost.

28 PLANTS OF WESTINGHOUSE OUT ON STRIKE

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Twenty-eight plants of Westinghouse Electric Corp. were hit today by a strike of 43,000 members of the CIO International Union of Electrical Workers.

There was no immediate indication that the company's other 30 plants, employing about 70,000 workers affiliated with other unions, would be affected.

The CIO-IUE, headed by James B. Carey, ordered the walkout to begin on schedule only a few hours after the company announced Carey had "initiated an agreement" to end a five-week-old strike at the East Pittsburgh plant "and cancel a threatened national strike."

The strike at the East Pittsburgh plant is the cause of today's nationwide walkout. It began Aug. 7 when 2,200 day workers—employees such as crane operators and service employees—walked off the job to protest a company plan to make a time study as an efficiency move. Local 601, representing the East Pittsburgh plant, said the time study violated the contract. Denying this, the company said it was entitled to manage its own operations.

Conflicting Opinion
Robert D. Blasler, Westinghouse vice president, said the agreement initiated by Carey would have permitted the company to continue the time study in one department. He said it also permitted the union to bring up the entire question in wage negotiations scheduled to begin Sept. 15. He expressed surprise that Carey may have misunderstood "what the terms of the agreement mean."

Carey said he had made it clear to Blasler "that nothing in the proposed agreement modified any provisions of the current national agreement between the company and union, particularly the provision regarding filing of grievances, except a clause broadening the reopening section on national negotiations."

Picketing began early today throughout the country. Plants are located in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Ohio, West Virginia, New York, Massachusetts, Connecticut and Indiana.

Turkeys Will Be Of Better Quality

HARRISBURG (AP)—Although fewer turkeys are being grown on Pennsylvania farms this year, the State Agriculture Department said today they will be of better quality and "more pleasing to the eye and palate."

A federal-state survey disclosed that commonwealth growers this season have made a swin groom the lighter breeds of turkey toward production of more heavily meated birds.

Consumer preference for Thanksgiving and Christmas dinners dictated the change, the department said, adding that smaller sized turkeys will still be available for use any time of the year.

Pennsylvania turkey production for this year was forecast at 2,078,000 birds, 9 per cent under the 1954 output.

William Krom for a project visitation.

Chairman of the Board of Commissioners Wales E. Rightmire presided at the recent meeting of the town council. All the commissioners and the mayor was present. Three delegations presented problems to the Town Fathers.

Town Clerk Louis Sebold presented the minutes of the previous meeting, the report of the treasurer and that of the tax collector. All were approved as read.

A delegation of DePaul St. citizens and property-owners was present and sought to have sewer lines laid and curbing erected in the area. At the same time the group complained to council that several lots were in need of cleaning, declaring the weeds were causing hay fever sufferers a great deal of trouble and that trash was breeding rats and mosquitoes.

Another group requested that some means of regulating parking on Federal Ave. be devised whereby those residents living on that street could have ample parking facilities and access to their homes. Complaints were laid before council that motorists were parking too close to the front doors of the homes and also parking on the wrong side of the street.

A third delegation requested that the town fathers extend the present proposed sewer line on Federal Ave. enough to accommodate several more houses that might possibly be erected in the near future. Council has taken all three requests under advisement.

It was decided that a letter would be sent to the owner of the vacant lot on DePaul St. advising that the lot must be cleared off in the near future.

HAS EVIDENCE TO FIX BLAME IN GIRL'S DEATH

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Dist. Atty. Samuel Dash says he has new evidence that will help fix responsibility for the death of Mrs. Doris Silver Ostreicher, whose mother answers today to charges that she was involved in a criminal abortion that caused the death.

Dash said last night the new evidence was contained in a preliminary report by New York pathologists who have been studying tissues and vital organs of the beautiful 22-year-old Food Fair store heiress.

Dash would not indicate the nature of the new information. But he said previously that pathologists would attempt to set the exact time that the girl died on the night of Aug. 24 while with her mother in the North Philadelphia home of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Schwartz.

Mother In Seclusion
Investigators have said they could account for most of Mrs. Ostreicher's movements on the 24th. By pinning down the exact time of death, they said, it would be possible to limit the field of investigation. It was reported that the abortion attempt occurred an hour or two before Mrs. Ostreicher's death.

The girl's mother, Mrs. Gertrude Silver, has remained in seclusion in their plush Melrose Park home since that night, suffering from what a psychiatrist termed "bereavement shock."

Mrs. Silver is the only one charged by Dash in the investigation. She is accused specifically with conspiracy and with being an accessory before the fact of an abortion.

Mrs. Ostreicher eloped to Folkestone, Ga., June 24 with Miami Beach motorcycle policeman Earl Ostreicher. She returned alone to her home two weeks before her death.

Ostreicher, in an interview, said his wife returned to Philadelphia to talk to her parents who, he said, were displeased with the marriage.

BOLT BLOWS KNOTS
JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Mrs. A. Y. Smith's pride and joy was the knotty cypress wood ceiling in the living room of her home. Lightning struck the house yesterday, knocking every knot out of the ceiling but doing little damage otherwise.

DEATHS

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
MEMPHIS — Mayor Frank T. Tobey, 64, a leader in successful fight against Dixon-Yates power contract and candidate for re-election in November. Died yesterday.

NEW YORK — Richard William Dunlap, 56, former travel editor of the New York Herald-Tribune and a New York correspondent for the London Daily Mail. Died yesterday.

NEW YORK — James R. Ray, 63, writer of books and articles about aviation under name Jim Ames. Died Saturday.

HOLLYWOOD — Actor Bernard Groce, 67, who created the Isaac Cohen role in the stage play "Able's Irish Rose." Died yesterday.

IKE SUGGESTS MORE SCHOOLING
DENVER (AP)—President Eisenhower says America's youth ought to spend more time studying in this "complicated" age. He advocates lengthening regular high school and college courses to perhaps five years.

And he also suggests that older folks are being required to retire from their jobs too early in life. That practice, he declared with a hearty laugh yesterday, may lead to "a revolution of old men and I am going to be in it."

In that light note maybe there was—and maybe there wasn't—a hint that he regards himself as still too young to pass up bidding for a second term. He will be 65 Oct. 14.

The President expressed his views on education and retirement during an inspection of the temporary headquarters of the new Air Force Academy at Lowry Air Force Base here.

He was chatting informally with Lt. Gen. Hubert R. Harmon, academy superintendent and a 1915 classmate at West Point.

SEEKS TV LINK WITH MEDICINE AROUND WORLD

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A "super-clinic of the future"—linking doctors of the world by television—is envisioned today by a New York electronics and TV consultant.

Dr. Alfred N. Goldsmith said he foresaw the possibility—perhaps "within five to 15 years"—of televising a medical problem, such as symptoms of a rare disease, around the world in a tenth of a second, thus marshaling the talents of many experts for quick advice to the part of the world affected.

He told a reporter this in amplifying on remarks prepared for the opening session of the 20th annual congress of the American and Canadian sections of the International College of Surgeons.

Goldsmith told the doctors:

Television Symposia
"Television symposia provide new means for tying together, by interconnection, widely separated hospitals and thus combining them into the superclinic of the future. The most expert knowledge of each will be available to all."

Goldsmith said TV relay circuits "could be engineered" to carry medical television sessions over any distance on earth.

As an example of how the system would be of aid to doctors, he told a reporter:

"Say you had an outbreak of a rare tropical disease in New Orleans. Doctors could visualize a case of the disease on the worldwide network, explain the symptoms, and perhaps get advice very promptly from an expert in Singapore who was familiar with the malady."

He said the system conceivably could operate either on a closed-circuit basis or be tied in with commercial TV—with the medical program being televised "on an emergency basis" in the latter instance.

One of the most attractive features of "The Youngsville" is its spacious front porch which measures 16' x 9' and can be glassed or screened in if desired.

From this large porch you can go directly into the living room, through the door in the left wall; and into the kitchen, through the door in the back wall. Measuring 20' x 15', the living room is the largest room in "The Youngsville" and is destined to be the family's entertainment center where friends and relatives can gather.

The large built-in fireplace in the center of the left wall adds both a decorative and friendly note to the room. It will prove itself practical, too, during chilly weather when the basement heater has been shut off.

Another doorway, in the left end of the back wall opens on the central hall that leads to the bath and the two bedrooms. The large all-modern bath contains a tub and a shower and is well-lighted by a window in the back wall. Opposite the door to the back bedroom, against the right wall of this hall-way, is the large linen closet.

Large Closet
The larger of the two bedrooms, intended to be used as the master bedroom, measures 12' x 13'. Assured of adequate light and good cross ventilation from the window in the back wall and the other window in the left wall of the room, this bedroom has a large clothes closet in its right wall.

Also assured of cross ventilation and plenty of light from a window in the front wall and one in the right wall, the front bedroom likewise has a large clothes closet. Measuring 12 feet square, this room could easily accommodate twin beds; the long back wall could be used for the installation of bunk beds.

The extra closet, opening on the central hall, just to the left of the door to this front bedroom, will come in handy for an assortment of storage uses.

Dining Room
Measuring 10' x 9', the dining room is separated from the living room by the previously mentioned small hall. The one large window in the back wall, provides light and ventilation for the room. Place your dining room set where you can reap the advantage of the light, air and view from this window.

A door in the right wall of the dining room leads to the well planned modern kitchen — thus you won't have any extra steps to take when serving a family meal or special dinner in the dining room. Long and narrow, the kitchen is 13' x 9' in dimensions.

The sink is placed under the double windows in the back wall, the logical and best location. Working counters, complete with cabinets and cupboards, are placed on either side of the sink and the L arrangement terminates along the left wall.

Against the opposite kitchen wall are arrayed, the broom closet, refrigerator, stove and an extra working counter, in that order. A door in the right section of the back wall leads to the back porch and the back yard.

This back porch also provides protected entrance to the two-car garage. Measuring 20' x 19', this garage has double windows in the right wall and another window in the back wall.

Blueprints Available
Complete plans for this home are available; 1 set — $12.75, 2 sets — $19.35, 3 sets — $25.80. Address requests (mentioning name of home) to Home of the Week, Inc., Dept. GE, 87 Weybosset St., Providence, R. I. Send check or money order or plans will be sent C.O.D. A complete home owner's kit and contractor's kit will be included at no extra cost.

28 PLANTS OF WESTINGHOUSE OUT ON STRIKE

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Twenty-eight plants of Westinghouse Electric Corp. were hit today by a strike of 43,000 members of the CIO International Union of Electrical Workers.

There was no immediate indication that the company's other 30 plants, employing about 70,000 workers affiliated with other unions, would be affected.

The CIO-IUE, headed by James B. Carey, ordered the walkout to begin on schedule only a few hours after the company announced Carey had "initiated an agreement" to end a five-week-old strike at the East Pittsburgh plant "and cancel a threatened national strike."

The strike at the East Pittsburgh plant is the cause of today's nationwide walkout. It began Aug. 7 when 2,200 day workers—employees such as crane operators and service employees—walked off the job to protest a company plan to make a time study as an efficiency move. Local 601, representing the East Pittsburgh plant, said the time study violated the contract. Denying this, the company said it was entitled to manage its own operations.

Conflicting Opinion
Robert D. Blaser, Westinghouse vice president, said the agreement initiated by Carey would have permitted the company to continue the time study in one department. He said it also permitted the union to bring up the entire question in wage negotiations scheduled to begin Sept. 15. He expressed surprise that Carey may have misunderstood "what the terms of the agreement meant."

Carey said he had made it clear to Blaser "that nothing in the proposed agreement modified any provisions of the current national agreement between the company and union, particularly the provision regarding filing of grievances, except a clause broadening the reopening section on national negotiations."

Picketing began early today throughout the country. Plants are located in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Ohio, West Virginia, New York, Massachusetts, Connecticut and Indiana.

The former Morris Zantz farm was the scene of the regular monthly meeting of the Emmitsburg Grange held Wednesday evening. Master Richard Florence presided with 30 members and guests present.

Mrs. Robert Daugherty spoke of the coming celebration in July, 1957, of the 200th anniversary of the town of Emmitsburg and asked for two members of the Grange to be appointed to represent the Grange on the general committee. The members appointed were Richard Florence and Edgar G. Emerich.

Mr. William G. Baker, chairman, gave a report on the coming community show for this year. The local grange will sponsor a booth at the Frederick Fair and the following committee was named in charge of the booth: Mrs. George Gartrell, chairman, Edgar Emerich and Paul Beale.

Four candidates received the third and fourth degrees at the Langanora Grange in Unionville. Receiving degrees were Carlos P. Englar, Mrs. Loy Hess, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Weybright. The state grange meeting will be held in Easton, Md., on October 25, 26, 27. The next regular meeting of the group will be held in the local public school Wednesday, Sept. 21, at 8 o'clock.

The 4-H Club met Saturday morning at 9 o'clock at the home of

Turkeys Will Be Of Better Quality

HARRISBURG (AP)—Although fewer turkeys are being grown on Pennsylvania farms this year, the State Agriculture Department said today they will be of better quality and "more pleasing to the eye and palate."

A federal-state survey disclosed that commonwealth growers this season have made a swan groom the lighter breeds of turkey toward production of more heavily meated birds.

Consumer preference for Thanksgiving and Christmas dinners dictated the change, the department said, adding that smaller sized turkeys will still be available for use any time of the year.

Pennsylvania turkey production for this year was forecast at 2,078,000 birds, 9 per cent under the 1954 output.

William Krom for a project visitation.

Chairman of the Board of Commissioners Wales E. Rightmire presided at the recent meeting of the town council. All the commissioners and the mayor was present. Three delegations presented problems to the Town Fathers.

Town Clerk Louis Sebald presented the minutes of the previous meeting, the report of the treasurer and that of the tax collector. All were approved as read.

A delegation of DePaul St. citizens and property-owners was present and sought to have sewer lines laid and curbing erected in the area. At the same time the group complained to council that several lots were in need of cleaning, declaring the weeds were causing hay fever sufferers a great deal of trouble and that trash was breeding rats and mosquitoes.

Another group requested that some means of regulating parking on Federal Ave. be devised whereby those residents living on that street could have ample parking facilities and access to their homes. Complaints were laid before council that motorists were parking too close to the front doors of the homes and also parking on the wrong side of the street.

A third delegation requested that the town fathers extend the present proposed sewer line on Federal Ave. enough to accommodate several more houses that might possibly be erected in the near future. Council has taken all three requests under advisement.

It was decided that a letter would be sent to the owner of the vacant lot on DePaul St. advising that the lot must be cleared off in the near future.

HAS EVIDENCE TO FIX BLAME IN GIRL'S DEATH

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Dist. Atty. Samuel Dash says he has new evidence that will help fix responsibility for the death of Mrs. Doris Silver Ostreicher whose mother answers today to charges that she was involved in a criminal abortion that caused the death.

Dash said last night the new evidence was contained in a preliminary report by New York pathologists who have been studying tissues and vital organs of the beautiful 22-year-old Food Fair store heiress.

Dash would not indicate the nature of the new information. But he said previously that pathologists would attempt to set the exact time that the girl died on the night of Aug. 24 while with her mother in the North Philadelphia home of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Schwartz.

Mother In Seclusion
Investigators have said they could account for most of Mrs. Ostreicher's movements on the 24th. By pinning down the exact time of death, they said, it would be possible to limit the field of investigation. It was reported that the abortion attempt occurred an hour or two before Mrs. Ostreicher's death.

The girl's mother, Mrs. Gertrude Silver, has remained in seclusion in their plush Melrose Park home since that night, suffering from what a psychiatrist termed "bereavement shock."

Mrs. Silver is the only one charged by Dash in the investigation. She is accused specifically with conspiracy and with being an accessory before the fact of an abortion.

Mrs. Ostreicher eloped to Folkston, Ga., June 24 with Miami Beach motorcycle policeman Earl Ostreicher. She returned alone to her home two weeks before her death.

Ostreicher, in an interview, said his wife returned to Philadelphia to talk to her parents who, he said, were displeased with the marriage.

DEATHS

MEMPHIS — Mayor Frank T. Tobey, 64, a leader in successful fight against Dixon-Yates power contract and candidate for re-election in November. Died yesterday.

NEW YORK — Richard William Dunlap, 58, former travel editor of the New York Herald-Tribune and a New York correspondent of the London Daily Mail. Died yesterday.

Dr. Alfred N. Goldsmith said he foresaw the possibility—perhaps "within five to 15 years"—of televising a medical problem, such as symptoms of a rare disease, around the world in a tenth of a second, thus marshaling the talents of many experts for quick advice to the part of the world affected.

He told a reporter this in amplifying on remarks prepared for the opening session of the 20th annual congress of the American and Canadian sections of the International College of Surgeons.

Goldsmith told the doctors:

Television symposia provide new means for tying together, by interconnection, widely separated hospitals and thus combining them into the superclinic of the future.

The most expert knowledge of each will be available to all. Goldsmith said TV relay circuits "could be engineered" to carry medical television sessions over any distance on earth. As an example of how the system would be of aid to doctors, he told a reporter:

"Say you had an outbreak of a rare tropical disease in New Orleans. Doctors could visualize a case of the disease on the worldwide network, explain the symptoms, and perhaps get advice very promptly from an expert in Singapore who was familiar with the malady."

He said the system conceivably could operate either on a closed-circuit basis or be tied in with commercial TV—with the medical program being televised "on an emergency basis" in the latter instance.

SEEKS TV LINK WITH MEDICINE AROUND WORLD

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A "super-clinic of the future"—linking doctors of the world by television—is envisioned today by a New York electronics and TV consultant.

Dr. Alfred N. Goldsmith said he foresaw the possibility—perhaps "within five to 15 years"—of televising a medical problem, such as symptoms of a rare disease, around the world in a tenth of a second, thus marshaling the talents of many experts for quick advice to the part of the world affected.

FAURE AWAITS APPROVAL OF MOROCCAN PACT

PARIS (P)—Premier Edgar Faure today tackled the most potent political opposition at home to his new deal for Morocco.

President Rene Coty summoned the full Cabinet to pass on the home rule agreement worked out with the pro-nationalist former Sultan, Mohammed Ben Youssef. Across the Mediterranean, the North African protectorate tensely awaited the outcome. The French showed the Arab quarters of the chief cities with leaflets, bluntly warning that they would permit no repetition of the uprising Aug. 20-21 in which more than 1,000 died.

Heavy detachments of troops patrolled Casablanca and other major cities to counter any violence that might be touched off by one nationalist group's call for a general strike.

Faure was determined to get Cabinet approval for his Moroccan settlement today, the target date he assigned himself a month ago. However, some right-wing cabinet ministers were expected to oppose at least some portions of the accord.

The rightist opposition threatened not only the future of Morocco's nine million Moslems and half a million European residents, but that of Faure's government as well. Although Socialist votes probably ensured National Assembly approval of the settlement, a walk-out by the right-wing ministers would virtually force the Premier to resign when Parliament reconvenes next month.

In Paris, some 400 air force reservists called up for North African duty battled military police at a railroad station for more than two hours yesterday to prevent being shipped to Marseille, their port of embarkation. "Mo-

Lebanon TV Owners Plan Program Series

PHILADELPHIA (P)—The radio and television division of Triangle Publications, Inc., prospective owner of station WLBZ-TV at Lebanon, Pa., says it plans a series of programs on "subjects of vital interest to the pupils and parents of the Lebanon city school system."

Roger W. Clipp, general manager of the division, made the statement Saturday.

FATHER ADMITS FATAL BEATING

BRIDGETON, N.J. (P)—Robert Maust, father of two young boys, was to be arraigned today on a murder charge in the fatal beating of his 26-year-old wife in their apartment.

Police said Maust, 27, signed a statement in which he admitted inflicting the beating on his wife Alice.

Neighbors, hearing the screams and moans Saturday, alerted police—who were about to break down the Maust door to rescue the woman until Maust admitted them to the apartment.

Eye Witness
One of the patrolmen, John Hamlyn, said he saw Maust knock his wife to the floor twice. The patrolman said he witnessed this part of the beating from the side porch of the Maust's first floor apartment.

Mrs. Maust, found on the bathroom floor, died later in Bridgeton Hospital. The Mausts' two sons, aged 2 and 6, were on a sofa in the living room.

rocco for the Moroccans," they shouted. The rebellious men finally were taken by truck to a suburban air base. The Defense Ministry said the men would be flown to North Africa, and meanwhile their insubordination was being investigated.

Simpson Says Ike Will Lead GOP Again

WASHINGTON (P)—Rep. Richard Simpson (R-Pa.) has said in a statement issued from his Washington office that he is sure President Eisenhower will be "our standard-bearer again."

Simpson, chairman of the Republican congressional committee, made the statement Saturday after a breakfast meeting in Denver with Eisenhower and Republican state chairmen.

Simpson said the President "is in the best of spirits and told me his health is as good or better than ever."

the kitchen.

Authorities said the youngsters had not been fed and were dirty. The children have been placed temporarily in a home with a Bridgeton family until arrangements are made for their custody with relatives. The beating was alleged to have followed a Friday night argument in the presence of two visiting friends, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Palazzi.

Police were called when neighbors heard the screams and moans after the Palazzi left.

The two Maust children were taken by police Chief J. Fred Semple into his own home for a while. Later they were placed with the other family, not identified.

Richter follows through with a tale of Pennsylvania's part in American history, of its physical appeal for visitor and resident, and of its people as he knows them. The author does not claim to portray all that is Pennsylvania. "The state is much too vast and diversified to be portrayed fully here," he writes. He sets down "only that Pennsylvania and its people seen and felt by one observer, boy and man."

The author's observations center chiefly on Pennsylvania's countryside. He reports with the authority of long acquaintance on places such as Lancaster County, the Kittatinny Valley and the villages of the hard and soft coal areas and Pennsylvania's lumbering empire. Their peoples he sketches with a fine brush, providing many new and affectionate anecdotes about Lancaster County's Pennsylvania Dutch and their counterparts in the other areas mentioned.

Pennsylvania's wealth — of beauty, natural resources and industrial might—is a recurrent topic of Mr. Richter's story, but he maintains that the state's greatest treasure is its spiritual background of refuge and freedom.

Concluding his essay, Richter writes that to most native sons, Pennsylvania is the greatest state in the union. To this he adds that most also think that if you come from another state, it's your misfortune, not necessarily fatal but too bad.

The Pennsylvania is one of 43 railroads which recently announced that it has issued "credit cards" good from coast to coast.

The card permits credit on all the member railroads for rail and Pullman tickets and for meals and refreshments on trains. It is designed for the convenience of the regular traveler. They are being issued by companies for their traveling personnel and to individuals for personal travel. No deposits or cash balance are required.

The late President Theodore Roosevelt once said:

"Almost every man who has by his life work added to the sum of human achievement of which the race is proud, of which our people are proud, almost every such man has based his life work largely upon the teachings of the Bible."

Way back in the 15th century, when birds were presumably more plentiful than they are today, there was in England a sport called "batfowling." It seems that birds in those days would sleep in bushes and ye compleat batfowler, who was a gentleman armed with a light and a bat, took advantage of this custom. The procedure generally was to have an assistant start by beating the bushes adjacent to the bush where the main flock was asleep. In this manner they would first catch such birds as did not have accommodations at the central roosting point. Hence, "beating around the bush" came to mean approaching indirectly the main objective.

Among the projects the Emperor of Ethiopia plans for the development of his country is an 800-mile electric railway to link Asmara, the capital of Eritrea, with a new capital of Ethiopia at Bahar Dar, near Tana. Many obstacles will face the builders. Lake Tana is 200 miles inland from the Red Sea and has an altitude of 6,000 feet. Between the lake and Asmara the country is rugged. Peaks rise to over 14,000 feet, passes are 11,000 feet above sea level, and there are many deep gorges that present engineering problems.

Maintenance men on South African railways, accustomed to landslides and washouts following heavy and continuous rains, met an unusual problem recently. During a protracted wet spell, a fountain suddenly erupted between the rails on a section between Cavendish and Shallicross. Although damage was negligible, the flow of water was a nuisance, inasmuch as trains were required to reduce speed when passing over it.

Reconstruction of the railroad station in Leningrad, U.S.S.R., destroyed during the war, has at long last been completed. The new building covers an area of 484,200 square feet and is surrounded by a 216-foot spire topped by a star. There are waiting rooms on both first and second floors. The news dispatches say conveniences for passengers include special rest rooms for mothers with children, beauty shops, and shower baths.

The Toronto subway, opened on March 30, 1954, has so greatly surpassed expectations that thirty-four more cars have been ordered for use on the four-and-a-half-mile Young Street line. During its first year of operation, approximately seventy-two million passengers—some seventy times the population of the city—rode the underground cars, which covered a total of about 6,100,000 miles.
